HOUSE PASSES BILL TO REDUCE FEDERAL COST

President Given Right to Cut Veteran Budget and U. S. Wages.

40 SENATE CHANGES ACCEPTED 374 TO 19

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Only the stroke of a pen last night stood between President Roosevelt and the power to scale down veterans' benefits and Federal salaries on a broader frontier than Congress alone ever dared undertake.

By the amazing vote of 374 to 19, the House yesterday accepted some 40 Senate amendments to the unprecedented authorization. The bill will become law after technical indorsement by the Speaker and Vice President, and the formal signature of the President.

That may wait until Monday, as the Senate has quit for the rest of the week. It must be in session when the Vice President indorses the measure.

McDuffie Leads Drive.

Immediately afterward, the President will issue executive orders, cutting salaries within the 15 per cent maximum, and adjusting downward all veterans' benefits not specifically protected in the bill. The salary reductions would be effective next month.

Overwhelming House approval of the bill cutting approximately $25,000,000 in savings out of the measure, came on motion of Representative John McDuffie (Democrat), Alabama, chairman of the House Economy Committee.

The 19 opposing the bill yesterday, compared with 138 voting against it, when it originally passed the House last Saturday. The extensive reversal was attributed to the country-wide backing Mr. Roosevelt has received in his reconstruction program. Constituents have lost no time in communicating their sentiment to representatives in Congress.

Approval of the measure broke another congressional record for speed. Within the short space of ten days House and Senate Democrats have pressed to passage two measures conferring such sweeping authority on Mr. Roosevelt as would have taken the breath of any other Congress. First came the emergency banking law, and then the economy bill. Following through, the House was ready today for the President's farm relief recommendations, and Senate amendments to the beer bill.

97 Republicans Favorable.

Lining up behind 276 Democrats in yesterday's vote on the economy bill were 97 Republicans. Opposing enactment were 12 Democrats, 3 Republicans and 4 Farmer-Laborites.

An hour's turbulent limited debate marked yesterday's consideration of the McDuffie motion to accept the

Roosevelt Discusses Arms With 3 Envoys

Davis Sails Wednesday; Hope for Success Is Growing.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

America's role in the rehabilitation of the disarmament conference assumed a deeper significance in the present crisis after President Roosevelt initiated yesterday a series of conferences at the White House on the implications and effects of the new plan of Prime Minister MacDonald.

Not since the days of the old "T. R." has the Executive Mansion been the scene of such diplomatic conversations as it was yesterday. The British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, called on the President in the morning to unfold the details of the new British arms plan, and in the afternoon the President invited the two European nations most interested in the British plan, France and Germany, to another discussion, separately, on its possible reception there.

Disarmament was again the theme of the President's lunch hour conference with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large to European conferences, whose titular honor was formally confirmed yesterday by the announcement from the Secretary of State that Mr. Davis will be the American chairman of the disarmament conference, with the rank of Ambassador.

COTTON AND WHEAT IN STRONG ADVANCE

Stock Turnover Is Largest Since Last September; Bonds Also Rise.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—A violent upsurge in cotton and wheat kept the Nation's big markets boiling again today.

Stocks cooled off a little, but the bond market almost duplicated yesterday's sweeping advance, of proportions unprecedented in recent memory.

Mounting financial confidence and high hopes that it would lead to early business recovery were evident in the large-scale buying, both of securities and raw staples.

Wheat in the Chicago pit, in the first day of trading since March 3, quickly mounted the extreme limit permitted for a single day, of 5 cents a bushel, and corn shot up all it was allowed, 3 cents.

Resumption of trading in the New York Cotton Exchange found the floor thronged with traders, including the white-haired veterans who rarely participate, and prices bounded to $3.50 to $5 a bale, although they later subsided, to close with net gains of $2.55 to $3.

The advance in wheat prices alone, it was estimated, had added some $50,000,000 to potential farm purchasing power, based on the March 1 estimate of wheat still in the farmers hands. But it was a day of general advances in raw staples.

Trading in stock market swelled during the early hours to the fastest pace in months. A flood of new buying followed yesterday's spectacular upturn, which had carried scores of issues up $2 to $16 a share. Heavy profit-taking kept the market in check today, but in several instances,

Soldiers Ordered To Prevent Sales

Bismarck, N. Dak., March 16 (A.P.).—Gov. William Langer called today for action by the National Guard, where necessary, to prevent mortgage foreclosures and threatened a wheat embargo in protest against market price restrictions.

The threat to halt wheat shipments from the State was withdrawn after Langer was advised a 5-cent a bushel fluctuation limit imposed at Chicago and Minneapolis, to curb violent changes in wheat prices with resumption of trading, would be removed after tomorrow.

The National Guard order stood.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, March 16 (A.P.).—Convicts rioted on the prison island of Dosporcos, off the port of Santos today, and fifteen men escaped on a raft before troops arrived and restored order.

COL. COOPER CALLS DEPOSITOR MEETING

Declares He Will Disclose Commercial National Plan Tomorrow.

A call for a mass meeting of all depositors of the Commercial National Bank in the grand ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel at 8 p. m. tomorrow was issued last night by Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the bank.

"Col. Cooper promises to tell the whole story regarding the closing of the Commercial National Bank and says he will point the way to a speedy recovery," it was declared in a statement authorized by the bank head last night.

"There are about 20,000 depositors of the Commercial National Bank," the statement said, "and Col. Cooper says he will entertain them by a series of meetings if it becomes necessary, as he is determined that they shall know the story if they so desire.

"Col. Cooper has two or three plans in mind, some of which are old, but he has one of his own which is new and which he says is absolutely sure and safe for speedy recovery. He will disclose his new plans to the depositors Saturday at the meeting."

The bank president said last night that if too many depositors were on hand to be accommodated in the ballroom tomorrow night they would be addressed at a series of meetings, extending until all had heard "the story." A well-known feminine orchestra has been engaged, he said, to while away intervals.

The Commercial National Bank closed on February 28 and on March 1 was taken over by the Comptroller of the Currency.

The licensed banks of the District were nearer normalcy yesterday as clearings fell off from the peak of

Wife Slain, Young Dying, Man Seized

Jobless Husband Attacks Whole Family Because Meal Was Late.

Estherville, Ia., March 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Joe Berven, 25, was beaten to death and her three young children were injured, probably fatally, by the husband and father today. The children are Elmer, 5; Ramona, 3, and Jackie, 14 months.

The tragedy occurred at the house where the family lived on the farm of Olin Anderson, father of Mrs. Berven. Berven used the barrel of a shotgun to crush the skulls of his wife and three children, then walked to the Anderson house and informed his father-in-law of his act. He quietly accompanied officers to jail here.

Relatives said they believed the immediate cause of Berven's act was that dinner was not ready when he arrived home at noon. He had been out of work for two years and had grown moody and depressed, they said.

BOLD ARMS CUT PLAN ADVANCED BY MACDONALD

WOULD REDUCE SIZE OF FRANCE'S ARMY

Geneva, Switzerland, March 16 (A.P.).—With a boldness and fervor which stirred the weary conference to fresh life, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, today submitted to the world disarmament conference a new scheme for a disarmament treaty which would involve substantial reduction of the fighting strength of France and other armed powers, and permit Germany and her former allies to augment considerably their military forces.

To counter-balance this proposed concession on the part of the armed powers, he advocated an agreement for a consultative pact under the terms of and by the signatories to the Kellogg antiwar treaty.

Thus the United States is invited to interest herself in any breach or threat of a breach of the peace of the world, and to participate in diplomatic efforts to maintain international tranquillity.

Discussion Postponed.

Recent utterances by Henry L. Stimson when he was Secretary of State gave some encouragement to those in Geneva that the American Government may be prepared to associate itself in this attempt to implement the Kellogg pact.

The British proposals obviously will require deep study by France and the other great powers, and the conference decided to defer general discussion until next Thursday. It was immediately apparent, however, that by the introduction of new ideas or new combinations of old ideas Mr. MacDonald had injected a strong stimulus into a conference which has been drifting in the doldrums.

He put a stop for the present to all talk of a precipiate closing of the conference in a spirit of defeat. He explained at the outset that contributions to peace must be made by both the armed and unarmed nations, and he appealed directly to France and Germany to abandon their fear and to cultivate confidence in each other.

Admits Plan's Thorny Path.

"The plan which I am going to propose will satisfy nobody," he warned. "Wherever 4 or 5 people are gathered together—to say nothing of

FARM AID PLAN DEMANDS WIDE U. S. CONTROL

CONGRESS IS LIKELY TO STAY UNTIL MAY

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

A sweeping proposal for the nationalization of American agriculture under Federal control was formally submitted to Congress yesterday by President Roosevelt. He urged its immediate enactment.

Under emergency dictatorial powers, to be terminated only by presidential proclamation and not to be subject to review by the courts, Mr. Roosevelt recommended the establishment of an emergency agricultural administration within the Department of Agriculture for the general purpose of "increasing agricultural purchasing power."

The House had adjourned before the agricultural measure had been put in final form yesterday. As it is a revenue bill, it could not be introduced first in the Senate.

Quick Action Anticipated.

Chairman Jones of the House Committee on Agriculture and Forestry said last night the bill would be introduced and referred to committee today. Because of its revenue provisions it probably will need to pass through both the agricultural and ways and means committees before reaching the floor for debate.

After a conference with President Roosevelt yesterday afternoon Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said he anticipated quick action on the agricultural program.

He indicated also that Congress probably would remain with its tasks in the present session until the whole administration program is enacted, and then adjourn until next winter. He believed it likely this complete program could be whipped through by late April or early May.

Under Federal Licenses.

Specifically the agricultural bill would supply the provisions of the domestic allotment plan to wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, cattle, sheep, rice, tobacco and milk and milk products.

All processors preparing these commodities, or directly competing commodities, for marketing would be un-

Fumasoni-Biondi Given Red Hat at Colorful Rite

Vatican City, March 16 (A.P.).—The red hat of the Roman Catholic Church was conferred today by Pope Pius in colorful ceremonies in St. Peter's on the six cardinals created in a secret consistory last Monday.

The new cardinals are Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, former Apostolic Delegate to Washington; Rodrigue Villeneuve, former Archbishop of Quebec; Angelo Maria Dolci, former Apostolic Nuncio to Roumania, and Theodore Innnitzer, Elia Della Costa and Marufillo Fossati, who had been Archbishop of Vienna, Florence and Turin, respectively.

Alleged Fist Fight Creates Sensation in House Circles

Cannon and Romjue, of Missouri, Reported to Have Come to Blows, With Latter Receiving Eye Cut; Official Confirmation Lacking.

A purported fight between Speaker pro tem Clarence Cannon and Representative Milton A. Romjue, both Missouri Democrats—in which the latter is reported to have come off second best with blood from an eye cut staining House Office Building corridors—yesterday created a mild sensation on Capitol Hill.

Speaker pro tem Cannon yesterday emphatically denied the report of the encounter, but Representative Ernest Lundeen (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, declared to reporters that he separated the men after witnessing a part of the scuffle Wednesday night.

According to Representative Lundeen, he was walking down the corridor with the wife of Representative Shoemaker (Farmer-Labor), of Minnesota, on the way to the latter's office, when the noise of the fight attracted attention.

Representative Lundeen, who during a turbulent Congress some years ago wrenched a pistol from an angry Southern congressman, said he forcibly separated the two principals in the melee. He related that he escorted Speaker pro tem Cannon to an elevator and returned to assist Representative Romjue, who was bleeding about the right eye.

The first-aid station of the House Office Building was closed. At about this time Emergency Hospital received a call for an ambulance to go to the House Office Building, but the interne riding the emergency vehicle could find nothing amiss when he arrived.

Representative Shoemaker confirmed to reporters yesterday that he had seen fresh bloodstains being

SENATE PASSES BEER BILL OF 3.05 ALCOHOL; D. C. ACT IS OFFERED

Tydings Moves as Amendment Is Withdrawn.

HOUSE ACTION IS INDICATED

Plans Are Altered to Insure Passage on General Act.

Reluctantly withdrawn yesterday as an amendment to the national beer bill, the District 3.2 per cent beer measure was promptly introduced in the Senate as a separate bill by Senator Millard E. Tydings Democrat), Maryland.

At the same time, House Republican Leader Snell indicated he would make his Republican assignments to the House District Committee today so that body can organize to consider the local beer measure introduced in the House by Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland.

Senator Tydings withdrew his local beer amendment at the request of Senate Finance Chairman Pat Harrison, but only after he had obtained Senator Harrison's promise that he would do all he could to get favorable Senate action on the local legislation.

Harrison Fears Complication.

Senator Harrison objected to amending the national bill, because he feared it would complicate the issue.

Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride yesterday forwarded Mrs. Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House District Committee, a thoroughgoing analysis of the Palmisano-Tydings measure, and at the same time suggested that she get the views of District Attorney Leo A. Rover.

Mrs. Norton has been ill for several days, but she has ordered a meeting to consider the measure, as soon as her committee can be organized. Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee, also is ill at his home.

Although two Democratic members of the Senate District Committee have yet to be named, a poll of the membership indicates there are sufficient wet votes on the body to get favorable consideration for the Tydings measure.

Chief Beer Bill Points As Approved by Senate

(Associated Press.)

Here are the chief provisions of the beer and wine bill passed last night by the Senate:

Permits the manufacture and sale of beer or wine up to 3.05 per cent by weight, or 3.8 per cent by volume, in States whose laws do not prohibit it. As passed by the House a limit of 3.2 per cent was stipulated.

Subjects both wine and beer to a tax of $5 a barrel and brewers to a levy of $1,000.

Requires manufacturers to obtain a permit authorizing them to make beer or wine.

Prohibits the importation of the beverages into States where they are not permitted, with a penalty of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for six months, or both.

Prohibits the sale of the beverages to persons under 16 years of age.

House to Fight for More Liberal Content.

LIGHT WINES ARE INCLUDED

Measure Bars Sale or Gift to Children Under 16 Years.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

The Senate passed the beer bill last night. The vote was 43 to 30.

The bill as passed by the reluctantly acquiescent Senate, however, was not the same as was passed by the House. The senators insisted that they would vote to pass a beer bill providing for a 3.05 alcoholic content, but wouldn't vote for beer of 3.2 per cent. The difference actually is very little. But the gentlemen have to keep their explanations straight, so the beer bill will be reported to the House today and the House is expected to disagree with the Senate amendments and a conference will be asked.

Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), of Tennessee, his party's leader on the floor of the House, said last night that he saw no reason why the conferees couldn't come to an agreement and both House and Senate act on the conference agreement before adjournment tonight.

District Clause Omitted.

Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, chairman of the Finance Committee, which favorably reported the beer bill, called the measure up for consideration as soon as the Senate convened. Behind him stood Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, Senate party leader, who has taken the bit in his teeth and made vigorous passes at those who were ready to read him out of the leadership a few months ago. Perhaps he will be, but he is cracking the whip and letting no one doubt who is leader while he holds that job and indications are that the rest of the Senate is willing to admit it.

As passed, the beer bill did not include the amendment proposed by Senator Millard Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, providing for a District system of beer regulation. Senator Tydings withdrew his amendment at the request of Senator Harrison, it is said, and reintroduced it as a separate bill. Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), of Maryland, already has introduced a District beer bill in the House.

Borah Leads Dry Fight.

There is a difference of legal opinion whether enactment of the national measure would not also provide beer for the District. Corporation Counsel William W. Bride is of the opinion that it would, but that it would be best to be specific about the matter. Speaker Henry T. Rainey seems disposed to find time for consideration of a District beer bill if such a measure is deemed necessary to meet local doubts.

Reduction of the alcoholic content was something of a surrender to the

MINISTER ACCUSED BY GIRL SUSPENDED

Muncie, Ind., March 16 (A.P.).—The Rev. G. Lemuel Conway, accused of attempting to attack an 18-year-old girl member of his congregation, was found guilty of "imprudent ministerial conduct" by an ecclesiastical jury tonight. He was ordered suspended for a year.

The defendant, pastor of the Madison Street M. E. Church here, has denied the charges, saying he was the victim of enemies within his church. He appeared for an hour and a half today as a witness before the jury of 12 clergymen that heard the secret trial in a small suburban church.

His accuser, Miss Helen Huffman, also testified at the trial which began yesterday. She has said the minister made improper advances to her in his automobile on a lonely country road last December 20.

Mr. Conway also was charged with knocking Willard Aurand, choir master at the Madison Street Church, over the chancel rail at a Sunday evening service in January.

The jury of ministers deliberated two hours and a half before reaching the verdict and imposing the suspension, regarded by some of the clergy as the minimum penalty possible.

Bishop Edgar Blake of Detroit presided at the trial. He declined comment on the verdict.

Mr. Conway said he believed the jurors found him guilty only of the charge of assault and battery on the choirmaster, and added that had he sufficient funds to press prosecution, he would file perjury charges against some of the witnesses who testified at the trial.

He also faces trial in circuit court here on similiar charges

Rain in Long Beach Adds to Quake Woe

Long Beach, Calif., March 16 (A.P.).—Showers from heavily overcast skies were added tonight to troubles of earthquake refugees in Long Beach and Compton.

Mellon Will Leave London Post Today

Avers Roosevelt Is "Doing Quite Well;" to Sail on Leviathan.

London, March 16 (A.P.).—Andrew W. Mellon, who has crossed the Atlantic so many times that he has lost count, starts another voyage tomorrow, homeward bound on the Leviathan, ending his ambassadorial mission to the Court of St. James.

Today, between good-byes to friends and officials, he talked of England and America, but confined his political comment to the observation that the Roosevelt administration "seems to be doing quite well."

As for Anglo-American relations, he said: "They are perfectly harmonious. They were when I arrived and nothing has occurred since to change them."

Britain Today Publishes India's Freedom Plans

London, March 16 (U.P.).—The future of 360,000,000 persons is involved in the British government's proposals for a new constitution for India, to be published tomorrow.

The government announced its intention to take an important step tomorrow toward granting India at least a limited amount of self-government—a move promised to India's millions by every ministry in England in the last century.

Colorado Senate Passes Measure for 3.2 Beer

Denver, March 16 (A.P.).—The Colorado State Senate passed on final reading today a bill to legalize beer and wine of 3.2 per cent alcohol. The vote was 26 to 5.

The measure was sent to the House and immediately reported favorably by the temperance committee.

Shortage Increases In Harriman Case

Misuse of $1,661,170 of Depositors' Moneys Is Indicated.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—After examining additional depositors of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co. today, Arthur H. Schwartz, assistant United States attorney, said the misuse of $1,661,170 of depositors' funds by Joseph W. Harriman was indicated.

United States Attorney George Z. Medalie placed the figure at $1,393,000 Tuesday when Harriman, founder and chairman of the board of the bank, was arrested in his apartment, where he is ill of coronary thrombosis. The charge in the warrant was making false entries totaling $320,145.

The bank now is in the hands of a conservator. A group of depositors formed a protective committee today with Jacques Braunstein as temporary chairman. Braunstein said the depositors plan to conduct an independent investigation of the activities of Harriman.

SENATE CONFIRMS KIN OF PRESIDENT

H. L. Roosevelt Gets Navy Post; Several Other Choices Indorsed.

The Senate yesterday confirmed Henry Latrobe Roosevelt as Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Interrupting debate on the beer bill, Chairman Trammell (Democrat), Florida, of the Naval Committee, which had just considered the nomination, asked unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the nominee. This was granted, and without any discussion or objection, Roosevelt, a sixth cousin of the President, was confirmed.

The Senate then confirmed Medical Director Perceval S. Rossiter to be the Navy's surgeon general, and Emory S. Land to be chief of the Bureau of Construction, with the rank of rear admiral.

Daniels and Straus Indorsed.

Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina, and Jesse I. Straus, of New York, yesterday were confirmed by the Senate as Ambassador to Mexico and France, respectively.

The Senate also confirmed Norman Armour, of New Jersey, as Minister to Haiti, and Paul Knabenshue, of Ohio, as Minister Resident to Iraq.

It then approved John H. Holliday, of Mississippi, as Vice Governor of the Philippines, and Eugene O. Sykes, of Mississippi, for reappointment to the Federal Radio Commission.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee delayed until next week action on the nomination of Robert Worth Bingham, of Kentucky, to be Ambassador to England.

Will Study Speeches.

Chairman Pittman (Democrat), of Nevada, told newspapermen the nomination of Bingham went over until next Wednesday to permit the committee to inquire into some speeches the Kentuckian made in Scotland about a year ago.

These speeches were presented to the committee by Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, and were interpreted by him, Pittman said, to show a strong pro-British feeling that he contended the committee should look into.

After approving the ambassadors and ministers and voting to notify the President immediately, the Senate confirmed Avra M. Warren, of Maryland, for promotion to the rank of consul general, and the following routine promotions to the rank of secretaries in the diplomatic service: Harold Shantz, of New York; H. Merrell Benninghoff, of New York; Cloyce K. Huston, of Iowa; Winthrop R. Scott, of Ohio; H. Merle Cochran, of Arizona.

Capone Henchmen Fully Separated

U. S. Completes Plan to Scatter "Big Shots" Among Prisons.

(Associated Press.)

The plan of the Justice Department for a different prison for each member of the old Capone gang in Chicago who has been convicted has now reached fulfillment. Announcement was made yesterday that Jack Guzik, one of the lieutenants in the organization, had been sent to the Northeastern Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., along with 24 other prisoners from Indiana, Illinois and Ohio, who have been at Leavenworth.

The department said this transfer will help to relieve the heretofore existing overcrowding at Leavenworth and also will distribute the members of the Capone gang now in Federal institutions in such a way that no more than one of the prominent members will be in a single penitentiary.

Postal Saving Deposits Exceed Billion Dollars

Postmaster General Farley announced yesterday that at the close of business on February 28 there were on deposit at postal savings institutions throughout the country $1,005,572,570, a total far in excess of any amount heretofore intrusted to the Postoffice Department since the postal savings system was established.

On January 31 of this year there were on deposit in postal savings $942,540,200, while during the month of February these deposits had been increased by $63,032,370.

Outstanding Provisions Of Emergency Farm Bill

(Associated Press.)

Seeks by balancing production and consumption to reestablish farmers' pre-war purchasing power, based on 1909-1914 prices.

Permits cotton planters to take options on Government-owned cotton, provided they agree to reduce their 1933 production by at least 30 per cent, and arrange for sale of options at a higher price expected to result from curtailed production.

Gives Secretary of Agriculture power to provide for reduced acreage or production of any basic agricultural commodity through agreements with producers and to provide for rental or benefit payments to the farmers to bring the curtailment about.

Fixes the payments to farmers "in such amounts as the Secretary deems fair and reasonable to be paid out of any moneys available for such payments."

Authorizes the Secretary to enter marketing agreements with and to license processors, associations of producers and other agencies handling farm products in interstate or foreign commerce. Such processors and associations would be entitled to receive loans from the Reconstruction Corporation.

Levies a tax on the processor of any basic agricultural commodity to raise the revenues needed to carry out the emergency law, the tax to equal the difference between current average prices and the fair exchange value based on pre-war prices.

Provides that the act shall cease to be in effect whenever the President proclaims the agricultural emergency has ended.

WIDE FEDERAL FARM CONTROL IS PROPOSED BY ROOSEVELT

der Federal licenses by the Secretary of Agriculture, subject to such regulations as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe. This would include all packing plants, flour mills, cotton textile plants, corn refineries and breakfast food factories.

Peanuts, wool, sugar beets, cane sugar, potatoes and carrots are not mentioned in the draft bill released at the White House last evening shortly after President Roosevelt sent his special message to Congress.

Broad Powers Involved.

The Secretary of Agriculture would be given broad powers, however, to extend the principles of the act wherever necessary to control competing commodities.

Generally the President's plan contemplates immediate enactment of the domestic allotment scheme, plus the Smith cotton control bill passed by the last session and killed on March 4 by President Hoover's pocket veto. The emergency agency would also use, at the discretion of the Secretary of Agriculture, the general plan of Federal leasing as a means of forcing abandonment of marginal acreage under a Federal dole.

The funds to finance the measure would be collected by a processing tax on all the commodities named in the bill or later designated by the Secretary of Agriculture. This tax would be flexible within broad limits, at the discretion of the Secretary of Agriculture, but in principle would always be sufficient to provide a return to the farmer (in present-day purchasing power) equivalent to the purchasing power of the same products for the five-year average, 1909-14.

Provision for R. F. C. Loans.

Roughly the tax on cotton at the outset would be about 4 cents a pound, and wheat 30 cents a bushel. These taxes would be paid by the processor at the first stage of manufacture and pooled under the Secretary of the Treasury for the administration of the proposed act.

Wherever such processing taxes would place an unmanageable burden upon a manufacturer, he might apply to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan to finance the payment. All floor stocks on hand would be taxable as of the effective date of the law, and on all future delivery contracts the tax would be paid by the vendee to the seller, to be paid to the Treasury in the usual way.

The bill would liquidate the cotton holdings of the Federal Farm Board and all its affiliated corporations and associations pooling these stocks under the new administrative unit. The financing of all these transactions, under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act, is provided for specifically in the cotton section of the bill.

Nontransferable Options.

Farmers who signed a contract to reduce next year's production by as much as 30 per cent of the 1933 crop would receive nontransferable options on Government cotton up to the volume of the reduction. These options might be cashed up to next January 1, all the profits arising from increased prices between the effective date of the law and the sale date, to be paid to the farmer as a bounty for his reduced production.

"Deep study of the joint counsel of many points of view have produced a measure which offers great promise of good results," President Roosevelt said in his covering message to Congress. "I tell you frankly that it is a new and untrod path, but I will tell you with equal frankness that an unprecedented condition calls for the trial of new means to rescue agriculture. If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped-for results I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you."

Immediate Action Urged.

The President urged immediate action on the ground that in another month or six weeks the 1933 crops would be seeded. He said also that with this beginning the United States would be in a better position to deal with the larger problems of agricultural stabilization at the projected world economic conference.

His message was short and pithy. The explanation of the terms of the measure was left to officials of the Department of Agriculture.

"It probably will be taken up immediately in the House and acted upon with reasonable promptness," Senator Robinson said of the agricultural program, which he had discussed with the President. "Another message may be forthcoming within a day or two. Of that I will not speak in detail."

"It has not yet been determined whether we shall take a recess or proceed at once to the consummation of the entire program for the extraordinary session. It is my belief that this matter will be determined by the end of the present week. It is not believed that the two measures immediately in mind can be finally disposed of during the present week, but it is my thought that as they progress a conclusion may be reached and announced as to whether the Congress will be expected to remain in session, without a prolonged recess, until the program of the extraordinary session can be disposed of.

Permanent Banking Measures.

"It is my understanding that there will be presented an employment measure, but I can not speak of the details in anticipation of the President's message. I believe it would contain such suggestions for legislation as will contribute to prompt action."

Asked if the complete program would include permanent banking measures, Senator Robinson answered in the affirmative.

The extra session, he continued, might finish its work, if the decision is reached to go right through, by late April or early May.

Practically unqualified control powers over farm production and marketing would be vested in the Secretary of Agriculture, to be administered by the specially created bureaucracy.

Definition of Powers.

Under Tittle II, which defines the broad licensing powers of the Secretary of Agriculture, Section 3 grants power:

To issue licenses permitting processors, associations of producers and other agencies to engage in the handling, in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, of any basic agricultural commodity or product thereof, or any competing agricultural commodity or product thereof. Such licenses shall be subject to such terms and conditions, not in conflict with existing acts of Congress or regulations pursuant thereto, as may be necessary to eliminate unfair practices or charges that prevent, or tend to prevent, the effectuation of the declared policy and the restoration of normal economic conditions in the marketing of such commodities or products and the financing thereof.

The Secretary of Agriculture may suspend or revoke any such license, after due notice and opportunity for hearing, for violation of the terms or conditions thereof.

Penalties for Violation.

Any agency engaged in such handling without a license as required by the Secretary under this section shall be subject to a fine of not more than $1,000 for each day during which the violation continues.

Section 4 authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to require from time to time such accountings and records, trade contracts, &c., "as may be necessary for the purpose of this act."

Section 10, paragraph (e), provides:

The action of any officers, employe or agent in determining the amount of and in making any rental or benefit payment shall not be subject to review by any officer of the Government other than the Secretary of Agriculture or the Secretary of the Treasury.

The act is styled, "A bill to relieve the existing national economic emergency by increasing agricultural purchasing power."

Long continued disparity in agriculture prices, the enacting clause sets forth, has undermined a large proportion of the agricultural assets supporting the national credit structure. This and other causes "have affected transactions in agricultural commodities with a national public interest."

It is under this broad statement of legal principle that the measure proceeds to the definition of the new powers and aims of the Emergency Agricultural Administration.

All employes of the new agency would be under Civil Service regulations, and not more than ten officials may be engaged at more than $7,500 a year.

The Secretary of Agriculture would be authorized to engage whatever county and State inspectors, agents, enforcing officers, checkers, and other administrative assistants he may deem necessary.

Through Internal Revenue.

The processing taxes would be collected through the existing machinery of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and set apart in the Treasury as a special fund of the Secretary of Agriculture.

With the advice and consent of the Secretary of Agriculture, the Treasury might make the processing taxes flexible, to accommodate competitive conditions from time to time, or to meet violent shifts in the general price level.

During the life of the processing taxes all imports of affected commodities would have the tax added to prevailing tariffs.

Arrangements could be made, however, for the importation in bond of commodities for processing exclusively for the export market.

It is declared to be the policy of the Government in the administration of the act not to increase the burden on the retail consumer of farm products. To this end it is provided that in no readjustment of prices (through the processing tax) shall the farmer's share of the retail price be greater in percentage than was the case during the average prices paid at retail in the period 1909-14.

AID TO STATE BANKS RUSHED AT CAPITOL

Steagall Introduces Bill While Senate Passes R. F. C. Measure.

(Associated Press.)

New help for State banks, pronounced "agreeable to President Roosevelt," was prepared last night for House action, while the Senate quickly passed a measure to permit reconstruction corporation bank aid in States hitherto beyond its reach.

The House measure was drawn by Chairman Steagall, of its banking committee, who frankly declared it was acceptable to the President and said the bill would mean "parity" between nonmembers of the Federal Reserve and those institutions aided by last week's emergency act.

The Senate bill, by Senator Bulkley (Democrat), Ohio, would permit the Reconstruction Corporation to purchase notes and debentures of State banks in States where preferred stock must carry double liability.

Robinson Bill Substitute.

The original bank bill authorized banks to issue preferred stock in reorganizing without being subject to double liability, but some States, including Ohio, require the double protection.

Steagall said his bill was a substitute for the Robinson bill, passed by the Senate but never forwarded to the House for approval.

"It is what the State banks want," Steagall said. "The President is just as interested in State banks as he is in national banks. We will seek immediate House action."

The Steagall proposal would:

1. Authorize nonmember State banks and trust companies to apply to Federal Reserve banks for loans on time or demand notes.

Treasury Conferences.

2. Make such notes eligible security for the issue—to 90 per cent of their value—of Federal Reserve Bank currency.

The first part of the plan was contained in the resolution sponsored by Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, and passed by the Senate Tuesday. But it was held up there until yesterday to give Treasury and Reserve Board officials more time to study the plan.

This delay was protested vigorously in the Senate by Senators Long (Democrat), Louisiana, and Couzens (Republican), Michigan. Meanwhile, Long and Steagall conferred, the latter making frequent trips to the Treasury. His new bill was completed late yesterday after the Senate resolution was referred formally to his committee.

Tuesday and Wednesday and normal clearings were registered.

The number of checks cleared by the Washington Clearing House dropped appreciably from the high figures of the previous two days. Deposits also fell off to a more normal total.

The total checks cleared yesterday amounted to $1,716,728.31, as compared with $2,888,365.93 recorded on Wednesday. The high figure of Wednesday was attributed to Government pay day, when employes opened new accounts or deposited their checks in old accounts.

The decrease also was attributable in part to the fact that checks on thirteen banks, which have not yet been licensed, which had flowed through the clearing house before the holiday, are now temporarily stopped.

Farm Message

The brief message which was sent to Congress late yesterday by President Roosevelt on farm relief read:

"At the same time that you and I are joining in emergency action to bring order to our banks, and to make our regular Federal expenditures balance our income, I deem it of equal importance to take other and simultaneous steps without waiting for a later meeting of the Congress.

"One of these is of definite, constructive importance to our economic recovery.

"It relates to agriculture and seeks to increase the purchasing power of our farmers and the consumption of articles manufactured in our industrial communities; and at the same time greatly to relieve the pressure of farm mortgages and to increase the asset value of farm loans made by our banking institutions.

"Deep study and the joint counsel of many points of view have produced a measure which offers great promise of good results. I tell you frankly that it is a new and untrod path, but I tell you with equal frankness that an unprecedented condition calls for the trial of new means to rescue agriculture.

"If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped-for results I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you.

"The proposed legislation is necessary now for the simple reason that the spring crops will soon be planted and if we wait for another month or six weeks the effect on the prices of this year's crops will be wholly lost.

"Furthermore, by action at this time the United States will be in a better position to discuss problems affecting world crop surpluses at the proposed world economic conference."

RAILROADS ABOLISH SURCHARGE POOLING

Railway Credit Corporation Expected to Quit as Result of Move.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—The railroads have decided to abolish the pooling plan under which freight surcharges have been collected and distributed for the benefit of weaker carriers, it was learned today following a meeting of the Eastern Railway President's Conference.

In a decision handed down March 13 the Interstate Commerce Commission ruled that the railroads be allowed to continue collecting the present emergency freight rates by extending the date of their application to September 30, 1933. They were to have expired March 31.

At the same time the commission recommended that the carriers continue to lend the surcharge proceeds to meet railroad interest charges. But the railroads have found it impossible to accept this suggestion, and it is believed that the Railroad Credit Corporation, the distribution machine through which the surcharges have been allocated, will be abolished as soon as feasible, it was learned.

Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives, has already advised the commission of the railways' attitude, it was reported in transportation circles here.

The original decision of the commission authorized surcharges to take effect January 2, 1932, but ordered the railroads to pool such charges for the aid of the weaker carriers. Approximately $60,000,000 was collected under the pooling plan of last year.

Stimson Thinks Japanese Will Bow to World View

Review of U. S. Peace and Disarmament Efforts Says Nonrecognition of Territorial Gains Constitutes Powerful Influence.

(Associated Press.)

Henry L. Stimson, the Hoover Secretary of State, is hopeful that world opinion may yet lead Japan to withdraw its troops from Chinese territory in Manchuria as it did from Shanghai.

In a broad review of American peace and disarmamament efforts under the Hoover administration, Secretary Stimson laid greatest emphasis on the policy of nonrecognition of territorial gains made by use of military force in violation of the Pact of Paris.

"To those who are skeptical of the effectiveness of this course," said the article written for the magazine Foreign Affairs, and made public by the State Department, "it may be helpful to recall that the spokesman of the Tokyo foreign office, when announcing on May 11, 1932, the withdrawal of the Japanese forces from Shanghai, attributed (according to an Associated Press dispatch from Tokyo) this decision to the desire of the Japanese government to conform to world opinion and to 'end world-wide odium which has fallen upon' Japan.

"It may be contended that this conclusion of the Shanghai incident can not be regarded as presaging ultimately an analogous ending to developments in Manchuria.

"I believe that such a contention fails to take full account of the moral consciousness of a thoughtful nation which has in the past contributed in generous measure to the support of the peace movement."

Mr. Stimson described as a "fundamental postulate" of the Hoover administration the belief that the experience of the World War had produced a change in world opinion which made possible definite action among the nations to prevent future conflicts.

He explained that industrialization had made peoples more vulnerable to war and at the same time had rendered modern armies much more destructive.

"By these changes the inconsistency of war with normal life had become much sharper and more acute and its danger to civilization more emphatic," he wrote.

"Modern civilization was thus shown to have become too fragile to endure the stress of modern war as a function of recognized international policy."

Describing war as "like a prairie fire," Stimson said, "a war once started in any portion of the earth is likely to envelop the whole. Nowhere can war be neglected as entirely innocuous to the rest of the world."

In its efforts for peace, Mr. Stimson recounted, the world encountered at the outset "a wave of extreme nationalistic feeling," arising out of the world conflict itself, which tended to make progress more difficult, but this he referred to as "only transitory."

"Our own experiences since the war have already demonstrated," he wrote, "that the people, even of the United States, with all of their advantage of geographical situation and self-contained resources, can not retire within their own borders and lead a life of isolation from their neighbors."

In working with the League of Nations toward the peaceful ends sought by the Pact of Paris, as well as the league covenant, Mr. Stimson said the United States had made possible the mobilization of an effective world opinion.

Mr. Stimson said "a constructive policy of world stabilization" has been laid in establishing a definite policy of consultation by the United States with the other governments of the world on major emergencies. This, he said, has minimized the danger of working at cross-purposes with the league.

$269,000,000 HOARD RETURNED TO BANKS

Only $3,301,000 of New Emergency Currency Has Been Needed.

Hoarded currency amounting to about $269,000,000 has been returned to the Nation's banks since they reopened, according to a statement issued last night by the Federal Reserve Board.

The statement also shows that only $3,301,000 of the new bank notes have been put into circulation, out of an authorized issue of $2,000,000,000. The statement of condition of the Federal Reserve Banks was issued for the week ended March 16.

The statement of currency returned to the banks contrasts sharply with last week's figures. The statement last week showed that in the first three days of March $818,000,000 was withdrawn from the country's banks. Of this amount, $269,000,000 has been taken out of circulation and returned to the banks since the first of this week.

The currency statement shows not only that money is being taken out of its hiding places and deposited in the banks, but also shows how much more business is being transacted by check since the holiday. Most transactions during the bank closure were by cash, and resumption of payment by check has released additional sums of cash.

The statement of the new money in circulation is also significant. Although the new currency has been available throughout the country, only slightly over $3,000,000 has been put into circulation. This is partially due to a return of other forms of money to the credit structure, making it unnecessary to utilize the Federal Reserve Bank notes.

The statement also said:

"The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended March 15 as reported by the Federal Reserve Banks was $3,635,000,000, an increase of $17,000,000 compared with the preceding week and of $1,964,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1932.

"On March 15 total Reserve Bank credit amounted to $3,525,000,000, a decrease of $119,000,000 for the week. This decrease corresponds with decreases of $269,000,000 in money in circulation and $7,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, nonmember deposits, &c., and increases of $6,000,000 in monetary gold stock and $25,000,000 in Treasury currency adjusted, offset in part by an increase of $191,000,000 in member bank reserve balances.

"Bills discounted decreased $159,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, $52,000,000 at Chicago and $182,000,000 at all Federal reserve banks. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market decreased $14,000,000 while holdings of United States Treasury notes increased $6,000,000 and of certificates and bills $13,000,000. United States securities held by the Federal Reserve banks on March 15 included a special Treasury certificate of $19,000,000, compared with $32,000,000 a year ago, issued by the Treasury pending the collection of quarterly tax payments."

Fords May Enter Huge Bank Merger

Detroit Conservators Say They Would Welcome Reorganization.

Detroit, March 16 (A.P.).—Conservators of Detroit's two largest banks said tonight they would welcome any plan for organization of a new bank, to take over the assets of the old institutions, and belief prevailed that some such proposal, possibly involving the Ford millions, soon would be forthcoming.

The reports gained credence following visits today by Henry Ford and his son, Edsel B. Ford, to the financial district where a committee of large depositors of the First National and Guardian National Bank of Commerce was in session under leadership of B. E. Hutchinson, treasurer of the Chrysler Motors Corporation.

Hats, Checked at Court In New York, Are Taxed

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—The City of New York, eyeing various new sources of possible revenue, has decided there may be some profit in checking hats.

From now on at municipal court the patrons may check their hats for a pittance, and if the pittances are in large enough numbers the city will be very happy.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL, DRYS' LEADERS CRY

'Iron Hand of Brewers Controls Again,' Declares Antisaloon Head.

(Associated Press.)

Leaders of prohibition organizations last night assailed Congress for its approval of the beer bill and assailed the measure itself as unconstitutional.

F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, said, "The iron hand of the brewers was again in absolute control of many Senate votes," and added:

"If the beer bill, as passed by the Senate, becomes a law, this country will again experience the worst evils of the liquor traffic. * * *

"Those who voted for the bill, as well as those who voted against it, know that the slightly lower percentage adopted is sufficiently intoxicating to create the alcohol habit, and to encourage all the evils of alcoholism which led to the adoption of the eighteenth amendment."

Says Nation Will Rue It.

Edwin C. Dinwiddie, superintendent of the National Temperance Bureau, said, "I can but believe the Nation will rue this action and will see its folly and reverse it."

He said he believed 3.05 per cent beer "is intoxicating, and if so, it is unconstitutional, and the courts may so declare."

"Many courts have so declared through the years," he added. "If beer comes back we shall see whether its brewers and sellers will obey the law any better than formerly, and whether drunkenness will not inevitably increase. If better times come, as we all naurally and fervently hope, they will come not because but in spite of the return of beer."

Blamed on "Obsession."

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, said "the obsession under which they (leaders of two great parties) labor seems to be all the people want beer, are willing to pay for it and beer will pay the taxes and our troubles will be at an end."

Remarking that "man shall not live by beer alone" and that "Mammon worshipers just now prevail," he said:

"I have seen leaders of two great parties vying with each other in selling out the religious standards, the moral ideals, the safety of our home and the sobriety of our children to the makers and sellers of beer. * * * The populace will wonder why we did not tell them that beer never paid our taxes when we had it flowing like the brooks. * * *"

DOUG FAIRBANKS, JR. CALLED LOVE PIRATE

Chemist Asks for $60,000; "I Know All," States Joan Crawford.

Los Angeles, March 16 (A.P.).—Attorneys for Jorgen Dietz, a chemist, filed suit for $60,000 today against Douglas Fairbanks, jr., son of the film hero whose name he bears and husband of Joan Crawford, film star, charging alienation of affections.

The action alleged that between February 15, 1931, and a year later, Fairbanks "maliciously debauched" Selveig Dietz, causing a separation between her and the plaintiff and bringing upon him disgrace and dishonor.

False Imprisonment Charged.

A sum of $25,000 was asked on this count and a similar amount was sought on another charge that during the same period Fairbanks had stolen the affections of Selveig Dietz.

A third allegation, on which damages of $10,000 was asked, charged that Dietz was subjected to false imprisonment December 17, 1932, when he was compelled to go to the district attorney's office, where he was restrained from liberty for two hours and later taken to a hotel, where he was confined four hours.

Upon learning of the action, Fairbanks said:

"It takes courage for a man in my position to fight the various types of cases that are brought against him. I am now sorry that I was moved by tears and pleas during the Christmas holidays not to prosecute this case as was recommended by the authorities."

Plaintiff Questioned.

Fairbanks did not make a further explanation of his reference to the incident during the "Christmas holidays." District Attorney Buron Fitts, upon being asked concerning Dietz's allegation of false imprisonment, said his investigators had interrogated the plaintiff upon receiving a request to examine him.

The count alleging false imprisonment charged the action had been taken to force Dietz to refrain from making any claim against the actor. The complaint added that Fairbanks, Michael Levee, prominent in film circles, and others forced him to go to the district attorney's office.

Miss Crawford made a statement at the same time as her husband, saying, in part:

"There is nothing for me to say except that I have known all about this from the start." Levee said that "Insofar as the suit is concerned the issues will be met in due course."

Beer to Be Served In Lighter Glasses

Orders Placed Show Mug of Former Days Gone; Women Blamed.

Toledo, Ohio, March 16 (A.P.).—The old-time glass beer mug with the handle, still popular with cartoonists, will be missing from the picture if beer is legalized.

A large glass company here has started manufacture of a much lighter container, probably with an eye to the feminine trade. The old-fashioned beer mug, which served the double purpose of a container and a handy weapon in the old days, is not included.

Orders for thousands of beer shells are being received at the local company from jobbers in anticipation of a heavy demand from retailers if legal beer returns. The eight-ounce shell, thin, plain and light, is most in demand.

CONSTABLE IS SLAIN BY POLITICAL CRITIC

Editor, Wife and Another Man Are Charged After Police Storm House.

Medford, Oreg., March 16 (A.P.).—An information charging Llewellyn A. Banks, political crusader and editor, his wife and E. A. Fleming, of Jacksonville, with first degree murder for the killing of Constable George Prescott was filed by District Attorney George Codding here late today. Prescott was shot to death when he attempted to serve a warrant on Banks at the editor's home.

Mrs. Banks and Fleming were in the house when Prescott was shot. They were ordered held in the Medford Jail. Banks was confined in Josephine County Jail at Grants Pass.

Police here said late today they had received a letter signed by Banks this morning. It was addressed to Chief of Police Claudius McCredie and Capt. Lee M. Bown of State police.

They said it read:

"I have committed no crime and I therefore refuse to submit to the charges framed by the power company and Medford's old gang. Any effort to arrest me probably will result in bloodshed and no doubt in my own death. I am willing to furnish bonds signed by Mrs. Banks and myself, secured by $500,000 worth of property in Jackson County, and I will appear in any fair court of justice in answer to any fair charge filed against me. Sincerely,

"LLEWELLYN A. BANKS."

Prescott was shot to death as he stepped on the porch of Banks' home with a warrant charging him with robbing and destroying several pouches containing ballots cast in the November election.

Captain Bown said Banks told him: "I shot Prescott, who was trying to force his way into my house, as any burglar would."

The Grants Pass Courier said Banks declared he believed he was justified in shooting "in defense of my home."

Lieut. James O'Brien, State policeman, who accompanied Prescott to the house, said Banks shot a rifle bullet through the open door as Mrs. Banks answered the knock.

An hour later a force of State police, county and city officers forced their way into Banks' barricaded house and compelled him to surrender. He stepped over the body of the dead man and was hurried to the police patrol car.

Banks was dispossessed of his newspaper yesterday through a sheriff's sale. The killing followed by one week a mass meeting in the courthouse yard at which Banks said:

"Unless law and order is restored in Jackson County I will take the field in revolution."

For months Banks had been the storm center of a political disorder in Jackson County. He made repeated demands for wholesale resignations of county officers, charging fraud and dishonesty. He organized the "Good Government Congress."

Prisoner Gives Sheriff Cigar Box Bedroom Set

Las Cruces, N. M., March 16 (A.P.).—Maybe when Sheriff Dick Trivis needs some new furniture—say a dining room set—he will consider arresting Pedro Gutierrez again.

After a murder last April he arrested Gutierrez as a suspect. Upon dismissal of his case, Gutierrez told Triviz, "I want to give you something for your kindness to me," and thereupon presented the sheriff a hand-carved bedroom set which the prisoner had made entirely of cigar boxes.

Sissy Bars

Done in Old Rose and Lavender to Replace Old-Time Mahogany.

Cincinnati, March 16 (A.P.).—Exit the old mahogany bar when beer comes back. Enter the hotel "liquitorium," designed with lavender, green and old rose fronts done in tile or rookwood in a "tavern room."

This is the contrast drawn by John L. Horgan, managing director of a large Cincinnati hotel. It's not a mere prediction—for Horgan is installing one at his hostelry, and he says other hotel men are doing likewise.

It's a demand of an age of "effeminate" drinking, and the enterprise of hotel operators and equipment manufacturers who seek to add the refinement lacking in so many of the barrooms of the past, he said today.

SENATE PASSES BEER BILL, REDUCING CONTENT TO 3.05

prohibitionists who infest the still unreconstructed Senate. Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, idol of the drys, in all his leonine appearance took the floor against the iniquitous 3.2 beer bill. But Senator Harrison sheared off a few of his followers by agreeing to the 3.05 per cent.

Senator Morris Sheppard (Democrat), of Texas, also spoke against the bill. His speech seemed like a faint echo of the annual speech for which he has put on formal clothes and arisen on the Senate floor to toll off the blessings of prohibition on the anniversary of the most disobeyed law.

Age Limit Is 16 Years.

Senator Clarence C. Dill (Democrat), Washington, who is much concerned with radio and Government dictation to the radio stations, wanted to have beer advertising prohibited from radio programs. He was, of course, repudiated.

Senator Borah won a victory when he had incorporated in the measure a provision that the so-called non-intoxicating beer should not be sold or given to persons less than 16 years of age. That amendment, proposed by Borah, forbids parents to give to their children the day before their birthday the beverage it is perfectly legal to give them the day after their sixteenth birthday.

Another difference between the Senate and House bills is the Senate provisions authorizing manufacture and sale of wines, fruit juices and vinous and other malt liquors or beverages of not more than the specified alcoholic content. The House bill provided only for beer.

There were no other important changes in the bill. It provides that manufacture and sale of beer and wines, within the alcoholic content limitation, shall be legal within fifteen days after the measure becomes law. It provides for a tax of $5 a barrel and $1,000 per brewery on manufacture, and it is estimated that the Federal Treasury will get from $125,000,000 to $250,000,000 or more a year in revenue which it is now losing and which bootleggers and the grafters fattening on them are putting in their pockets.

HOLDING COMPANY SCRUTINY IS URGED

Gray, Former Senate Group Counsel, Sees Fertile Field for Probe.

(United Press.)

Careful congressional scrutiny of the structure of holding companies was recommended last night in a report filed by William A. Gray, former counsel for the Senate Stock Market Investigating Committee.

He was in charge of the inquiry about a year ago when such well-known figures in high finance as Percy A. Rockefeller, Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange; Thomas E. Bragg, Matthew C. Brush, and Bernard E. Smith testified to the formation of stock pools, some of which lost money for them.

Gray, who has been succeeded as counsel by Ferdinand Pecora, said the briefness of his tenure as counsel made it impossible for him to recommend any definite legislative remedies. He suggested Congress might be able to help the situation indirectly through its power "to regulate use of the mails, interstate commerce, banking laws and the taxing power."

A fertile field for investigation, he said, "is to be found in the practices of corporations in forming holding companies for the purpose of managing their affairs."

An echo of the collapse of the vast Insull utilities empire was sounded in Gray's report when he said in connection with holding companies:

"Counsel particularly has in mind various large utility corporations which might properly come under the control of the Federal Trade Commission."

In connection with Rockefeller's testimony, Gray said:

"Percy A. Rockefeller admitted his connection with certain syndicates or pools and his testimony developed the fact that among those who would engage in these pools were members of brokerage firms—in a position to obtain inside information regarding the operation of the stock exchange."

Gray added that Rockefeller admitted "selling against the box."

Farming Recovery Seen by Merchant

Illinois Speaker Says Rich Land Remain World's Best Investment.

Williamsville, Ill., March 16 (A.P.).—R. I. Manafield, Chicago grain merchant, said in an address tonight that under new leadership in government farming would be made to yield a profit and agriculture would become permanently self-sustaining.

"Farm values have sunk far below their instrinsic value level, and have reached a point that attracts investment buyers, who will bring new life into the industry," Mr. Manafield said. "The land value increases alone from current levels will assure betterment to all now engaged in agriculture.

"Good fertile farm land is still the safest and most stable collateral or investment to be found in the world today."

the gains of the previous day were extended by $1 to $4 a share.

Trading in shares slackened during the afternoon, after reaching such proportions in the morning that the ticker was unable to cope with it, and fell several minutes in arrears. Nevertheless, the turnover of 3,901,085 share in the stock exchange was larger than yesterday's, in fact the largest since last September.

The pace quickened in the bond market too, with a turnover of $14,858,000 par value, against $12,566,000 yesterday. Many issues rose $10 to $50 or more per bond of $1,000 par value, with U. S. Government issues again showing striking gains for these normally narrow moving issues. Some were up $10 to $20 per $1,000 bond.

An extraordinary situation prevailed in the excited Chicago wheat pit, watched by enthusiastic crowds in the galleries. Prices jumped the 5-cent limit permitted for a single trading session right after the opening, and as sellers were unwilling to offer grain at that top price, trading was virtually at a standstill for the rest of the day. Officials of the Chicago Board of Trade ordered that the restrictions be lifted, but as 10 hours notice is necessary, this will not take effect until after tomorrow's trading session.

'ALLEGED FIST FIGHT IS HOUSE SENSATION

mopped up by House Office Building employes a few minutes after the reported fight was said to have occurred.

No Capitol or police official of the legislative establishment yesterday had any report on the affair, beyond saying they had heard "rumors" of it.

Members of the Missouri delegation were visibly perturbed about the affair, but none would comment yesterday. It was learned, however, from other reliable sources that the Speaker pro tem—appointed to that office yesterday by Speaker Rainey—had complained of criticisms addressed to him by Representative Romjue.

Representative Romjue, the elder of the two principals in the alleged fight, has verbally attacked Speaker pro tem Cannon for the latter's stand on Presidential economy measures, it was learned, and the pair have also been at odds as to selection of a certain member of the House Steering Committee, powerful unofficial legislative group.

Representative Buckbee Better.

(Associated Press.)

Members of the office of Representative Buckbee (Republican), Illinois, said yesterday he was improving and was expected to leave Providence Hospital within the next 10 days. Buckbee, who is serving his fourth term in the House, has rheumatic fever.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

WITHOUT sacrificing in any way their adherence to the principles for which they have stood, Government workers, as represented by the American Federation of Government Employes, have risen nobly to a recognition of the national emergency which President Roosevelt is endeavoring to combat.

The statement issued by President John Arthur Shaw immediately after the passage of economy legislation by the Senate put the position of his membership in a light that must bring praise and commendation to organized Federal workers.

This statement, analytically, is in no wise a recession from the previous contention of the A. F. G. E. that Government employes' salaries should not be cut to balance the Federal budget. Yet it represents a generous, helpful spirit on the part of Government workers to lay such considerations aside for the moment and make their contribution despite their feeling that justice is still on their side.

True to trade union principles, Mr. Shaw's statement does not offer to accept the reduction simply because nothing else could be done about it, but offers acceptance for the sake of the country and its workers as a whole. Here is the most significant paragraph:

"If the salary reductions which Congress has imposed will contribute to the reemployment of the 12,000,000 men and women now idle, Government employes welcome the opportunity to aid their fellow workers. If the salary reduction will aid in any measure toward balancing the Federal budget, and thereby help put back those millions of income-producing jobs, we are proud to make this sacrifice."

THAT does not say Federal employes believe the cut should be made, nor that it is necessary or very helpful toward balancing the budget. It qualifies Federal workers' willingness to accept the cut to the extent that they make the acceptance contingent upon putting the money so given up to a good purpose.

"In contributing to a reduction in the total of the Government pay roll by accepting a cut in our salaries," declares Shaw, "we do so with the hope that this temporary expedient will minimize any contemplated or alternative reduction in the total number now employed by the Government."

Again, the federation's position is predicated upon welfare of the members of the service as a whole. One should note the use of the words "temporary expedient." This is tantamount to serving notice that there is no carte blanche permission to slash salaries for all time, but merely for such a period corresponding with national emergency.

"THERE is no question that the jig-saw puzzle and the cross-word puzzle satisfy the need for a sense of accomplishment," says Dr. Harrison Harley, professor of psychology, Simmons College, Boston.

No doubt the good doctor has just heard of the Federal Diary's jig-saw puzzle tournament to be held the evening of March 30 at the Kennedy-Warren, puzzles to be supplied by the University Distributing Co., makers of the Jig-of-the-Week.

"And the jig-saw puzzle satisfies that desire for accomplishment without the intellectual challenge which comes with the crossword. (Doctor, may we differ with you on that point—or have you tried to work a jig-saw?)

"The mental process is distinctly more in the real of form perception and imaginative thinking. That is why the jig-saw puzzle may appeal to people who for some reason or other must shun tedious intellectual effort, and is a particularly fortunate device for convalescents, or people who should exclude thoughts of business worries and financial uncertainties by a gratifying form of recreation. That is why it is so popular at present."

Air-Conditioned Postoffice.

SO far as known, we learn from Michael L. Eidsness, jr., superintendent Philatelic Agency, City Postoffice, Millidale, Conn., has the first air-conditioned postoffice, it being noted that the name of the postmaster is Mr. Frost and his assistant Mrs. Snow.

The patrons have not yet complained of any undue chilliness when transacting business in Millidale. But it ought to be favorite summer resort.

MACHETES, long and slim, short and thick, but all shining and sharp, constitute a display in the Commerce Department's Iron and Steel Division. The ownership of one of these in many sections of Central and Tropical Latin America is equivalent to "breaking into" the social register of many American cities.

These machetes are of the finest steel. They may be used for shaving or for cutting sugar cane, and for many and varied uses in between the two extremes. In brief, they are the general utility implement of a large number of people, and the sale of these knives is an important item of commerce in "normal" years.

There are distinct fashions in machetes, according to those interested in the trade. In one locality it may "be the thing" to carry a 30-inch blade which is narrow, while over the hill the style may be for a shorter and heavier machete.

But in any event they are worn nakedly thrust through a sash and glitter in the sunlight as a badge of distinction to the wearer. One American brand has so predominated the market in some sections that the machetes are known by the name of the manufacturer instead of by the name machete.

Joe has a supply of jigsaw puzzles on hand. Still he doesn't play them himself. Merely keeps them handy and passes them out at the right moment.

Every household should have a supply of Dr. Perling's Jigsaw Soothing Syrup on the mantelpiece.

Mary Hunt,
Personnel, Commerce,
Had a job
Prying her purse;
She pried and she tried,
Then she tried and she pried;
But those hinges, they simply got worse.

The line in the cafe drew denser;
The purse hinges seemed to get tenser;
"I can opener," said one standing by.
"Yeah, you can? Just simply you try."
They pried and they tried,
Then they tried and they pried—
The darned thing finally let go with a sigh.

So that Swarmi Fedd suggests that a bit of oil may make the purse hinges work oil right.

It seems Lawrence Batson, electrical equipment, Commerce, unable to obtain the sidehill whatzis, still is unable to get one. It is a spitzer-juniper. He bought a pear tree instead and expects by mid-year, 1934, to be able to have pear salad.

THE SHAMROCK.

Sure, the shamrock that grows on ould Ireland's soil
'Twill niver be grown on anither;
Tho' you steal it away, so loyal 'twill be
'Twill pine and its fair leaves will wither.

But bring just a bit of the soil that it loves,
It thrives and is greener than grasses;
They are sweethearts the two, and they iver will be
A symbol for all lads and lasses.

Ottawa, Ontario, March 16 (A.P.).—The postoffice department announced late today that money orders to and from the United States, suspended March 4, will be resumed tomorrow morning.

PARTS OF WHEELING INUNDATED BY FLOOD

Ohio Is Up Nearly 42 Feet; Residents Use Boats to Leave Homes.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 16 (A.P.).—The peaceful Ohio River, swollen into a mud-red torrent by heavy rains, is spreading fear and ruin along its shores tonight as its waters rush to the sea.

The crest at Wheeling late today reached 41 feet 8½ inches—highest since the disastrous flood of 1913 when it touched 52 feet 2 inches.

Tonight, with more than one-fourth of the city under water—flood stage is 36 feet—police are covering their beats in boats. Residents used boats to leave their homes for supplies.

The city's Seventh Ward, located on an island in the middle of the river, and the Fifth, Sixth and Eighth Wards, located below the business district, are almost entirely inundated.

The Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad yards are several feet under water. Both are operating passenger trains under curtailed schedules. Only one highway—east to Washington, Pa.—is open.

All schools were closed today.

Special police are standing guard in several sections over piles of household goods and clothing which families hastily removed from their homes.

The swift waters easily washed away improvised levees during the day, marooning block after block of dwellings.

Police estimate damage will exceed $100,000.

Government engineers predict the level will subside during the night. They say normal street car service, however, probably will not be possible until late tomorrow or Saturday.

Collier Mentioned As Indian Director

Merriam, Meritt, Mitchell Are Considered to Be Leading Rivals.

(Associated Press.)

John Collier, of Washington, secretary of the American Indian Defense Association, was reported about Capitol Hill yesterday to be one of the three leading contenders for the place of Commissioner of Indian Affairs in the Roosevelt administration. The other names most frequently heard were Lewis Merriam, of the Brookings Institute, Washington, and E. B. Meritt, an attorney for the Interior Department.

Harry Mitchell, of Montana, backed by Chairman Wheeler, of the Senate Indian Committee, was considered right behind these three, who were ranked by senators in the following order: Merriam, Collier, Meritt and Mitchell.

Meritt was an assistant Indian commissioner for sixteen years. A number of Indians from the Western reservations have indorsed Collier, who long has been active in Indian affairs.

White House Talks Involve Patronage

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt resumed briefly the patronage problem with his political lieutenants last night, but no decisions were reached.

James A. Farley, the Postmaster General and chairman of the national committee; Frank Walker, party treasurer, and Edward J. Flynn, of New York, conferred with Mr. Roosevelt at the White House.

"We discussed politics generally," Farley said, "but no decisions were reached regarding the New York situation."

It is apparent that the President is going to rely on this trio in his major political appointments as well as in selections of men within New York State, for Federal offices.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO CUT U. S. BUDGET

Senate amendments. Representative McDuffie said the liberalizing amendments were acceptable to President Roosevelt.

The Alabama economy chairman was assailed by Representative Joseph B. Shannon (Democrat), Missouri, who accused McDuffie of trying to "railroad" the measure. But in the final roll call, Mr. Shannon voted for the bill.

Representative Reuben T. Wood (Democrat), Missouri, vainly tried to get a separate vote on the amendment, holding on the pension rolls Spanish-American War veterans over 62, but Speaker Rainey gave right of way to the McDuffie motion to vote on amendments en bloc.

Speed Is Urged.

"Time is vital," said McDuffie. "If we do not concur in the Senate amendments, the bill goes to conference, and that means delay."

Under the salary authorization voted the President, he will make a study of living costs during the six months' ended July 1, 1928, and during the six months ended December 31 last. He would fix index figures for each period, and reduce salaries by the percentage of difference between the two, but not more than 15 per cent. Unofficially it was learned the percentage of difference is about 21 per cent, so the maximum 15 per cent cut is certain.

Amendments, all affecting veterans, would bar removal from the rolls of Spanish-American War veterans over 62 and veterans suffering disabilities incurred in line of duty. They would protect the status of veterans' insurance suits in the courts, and give the President discretionary power to provide hospitalization for nonservice connected disability cases.

Those Who Voted No.

Despite the approximately $25,000,000 stricken from the bill's economies by the Senate amendments, total savings still are estimated in the neighborhood of $500,000,000.

Democrats voting against the measure were Black, Connery, Crosser, of Ohio; Cullen, assistant Democratic leader; Dunn, Hoeppel, Keller, Murdock, Bernham, Somers, of New York; Studley and White. Republicans voting against were Brumm, Focht and Hamke, and Farmer-Laborites opposing the bill were Arens, Johnson, of Minnesota; Lundeen and Shoemaker.

MILLIONS TODAY PAY ST. PATRICK HOMAGE

Green Is Donned by Irish and Others to Honor Patron of Emerald Isle.

The benevolent influence of St. Patrick, beloved figure of Emerald Isle legendry, was abroad today and Irishmen at home, in Timbuctoo and Puerto Rico and in Washington paid homage to him.

Theoretically, at least, all troubles are forgotten by Irishmen today and all don the green, flaunt the shamrock and drain the cup of brotherly love in memory of St. Patrick.

Irish and non-Irish organizations and private groups all over Washington today are observing St. Patrick's Day with religiou observance and gatherings around the festive board.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians will attend a special mass at St. Patrick's Church, Tenth and G streets northwest, at 10 o'clock this morning. In the evening the Hibernians are holding their annual banquet and dance at the Mayflower Hotel, the dinner beginning at 7 o'clock.

At Immaculate Conception Church, Eighth and N streets northwest, a solemn high mass in honor St. Patrick's Day will be celebrated at 12:15 p. m. today. The Rev. Francis J. Hurney will be celebrant.

The Round Table Club will honor St. Patrick at their regular weekly luncheon today at the University Club. Ellis A. Yost, brother of "Hurry Up" Yost of University of Michigan athletic fame, will be the chief speaker.

Among St. Patrick's Day observances of smaller groups, the Ladies of Nativity Church, 6000 Georgia avenue northwest, will hold a card party in the parish hall at 8 o'clock tonight.

Tomorrow night the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick will hold their annual St. Patrick's Day dinner and gathering at the Mayflower Hotel.

A St. Patrick's Day dance will be held tonight at the Thomas Circle Club by the Pi Sigma Lambda Sorority.

The Almas Temple Shrine Club will hold a St. Patrick's Day dance tonight at the clubhouse, 1315 K street northwest. A special feature of the evening will be a number of uniformed dances to be presented by club members. The dance will be from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Commons Passes Larger Naval Sum

Pacifists Disturb Session as $185,888,000 Is Voted.

London, March 16 (A.P.).—The House of Commons tonight approved the £53,570,000 ($185,888,000) naval estimate after an all-day debate had been interrupted by three demonstrations by pacifists in the galleries.

The estimate, £3,930,700 ($13,637,000) greater than that of 1932, provides for part relaxation of the rigid economy enforced in 1931 and 1932, which resulted in curtailment of building and replacement programs.

A hatless woman in the peers' gallery suddenly showered the floor with pacifist leaflets and escaped by leaping the rail into the members' gallery and disappearing through a door. A man in the strangers' gallery threw over a second bundle of leaflets, and an elderly woman began shouting a verbal protest against passage of the estimate. Both were seized by attendants and debate continued.

Britain May Sever Soviet Relations

Impasse Over Arrest of British in Russia Is Unbroken.

London, March 16 (A.P.).—Likelihood of a severance of relations between Great Britain and Soviet Russia was discussed today in political and business circles as a result of the puzzling arrest of British subjects representing a British concern in that country.

No progress toward a settlement of the affair was made at a conference in the foreign office to which the Russian ambassador was summoned and requested to impress his government with the serious view of the situation taken here.

Should the case remain unsettled on April 16, when the present trade agreement with Russia terminates, there would be a possibility of an embargo on Russian goods, it was said.

Ruth Robins Sues Wealthy Husband

Former Musical Comedy Star Names Woman and Alleges Cruelty.

Los Angeles, March 16 (A.P.).—Ruth Gillette Robins, former musical comedy star, filed suit for divorce today against Rowland O. Robins, cosmetic manufacturer and heir to a large estate.

She named Pearl Dannenberg as co-respondent and said Robins had been in the latter's company in San Mateo, Calif., last January.

Mrs. Robins also charged cruelty, saying her husband was rude to her friends and hindered her in attempts to obtain theatrical work. She said Robins has an estate of $300,000, subject to a life interest in it held by his mother.

South Carolina Reports Few Cross-Tie Cutters

World Looks Back 28 Years To Wedding of Roosevelts

"T. R." Gave His Niece to Her Distant Cousin on St. Patrick's Day in New York; White House Couple Mark Anniversary.

(Associated Press.)

Twenty-eight years ago today, and it was on Friday, too, a Roosevelt-Roosevelt wedding shared the limelight New York gave a St. Patrick's Day parade and a President.

That nuptial occasion, more significant than noted at the time, brought Theodore Roosevelt from the White House to give his niece, Eleanor Roosevelt, in marriage to her distant cousin, Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

This year the White House itself is to be the scene of the anniversary celebration, with some who played important roles in 1905 present. Among these will be Mrs. Henry Parish, in whose home the wedding was held, and Warren Delano Robbins, then an usher, now an authority on protocol and social precedence.

Many another will remember the Roosevelt wedding day, well preserved in print in the Library of Congress.

That was the March seventeenth when the Japanese cut off the fleeing Russians; when maps showed routes of the retreat; when Gibson girls paraded through the ads; when an editorial was titled, "Mr. Bryan and the Primaries."

"'Twas a great day for Ireland and Roosevelt!" the old World headlined, not hesitating to remark that the presence of the President "almost made the bride a secondary consideration."

The Sun, too, stressed the White House angle, in the breathless and dashing way of headlines of the day: "President Gives Bride Away; Ceremony at the Home of Mrs. Henry Parish—Alice Roosevelt a Bridesmaid—Her Mother and Sister There."

A trifle more prophetic was the Times, which led off its story with: "One of the most notable weddings of the year—"

In the twin homes of Mrs. Parish and her mother, Nos. 6 and 8 East Seventy-sixth street, with the partition dividing the two drawing rooms knocked out to make one large hall, the ceremony was held.

All accounts agreed that the Roosevelts were married in front of a shower bouquet of 450 pink roses, with a background of palms.

The World concentrated on the crowd scene:

"Owing to the immense crowds that surrounded these houses, the entire block was closed and 75 policemen were employed to keep order.

"Although the invitations were distributed sparingly, it seemed as if there had been no regrets, and the crush inside was so great many guests did not get beyond the threshold of the drawing room."

At "3:30 to the moment," it further stated, the President, with Mrs. Roosevelt and "little Miss Ethel Roosevelt," arrived in an open landau, was cheered, half arose from his seat and waved his silk hat—and "a huge bunch of genuine shamrocks hung at the President's buttonhole, and although the leaves looked sadly withered, he continued to wear them." From a fence top, "black with small boys," came cheers for Teddy, and one boy fell over backward when the President playfully shook his fist at them.

"Miss Roosevelt wore a white satin gown with long court train, covered with point lace that belonged to her mother. Her veil was also point lace and had been worn by her mother and her grandmother. She had a wreath of orange blossoms, and for jewelry wore a diamond crescent that had been her mother's, a pearl collarette, the gift of Mrs. James Roosevelt, and a diamond bow-knot, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley."

The Times gave a wealth of detail:

"The bride, walking with the President, and preceded by her six bridesmaids, came down the wide flight of stairs—

"First in the bridal procession came the Misses Alice Roosevelt and Corinne Douglas Robinson"—"in white faille silk frocks trimmed with lace and silver," with "tulle veils attached to white Prince of Wales ostrich feathers, tipped with silver" and "large bouquets of pink roses."

"Mrs. Henry Parish wore a changeable pale blue and pink silk crepe with lace sleeves and yoke."

Stealing some of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt's spotlight was a baby born that day while Teddy Roosevelt, "with a vim surpassing strenuous," was addressing the Irish at Delmonicos—Patrick McDonnell whose father sent a telegram to T. R. "No race suicide in this family," and Roosevelt, reading it to the banqueters, toasted the infant in wine.

Senator Davis Rallies; May Be in Hospital Long

Senator Davis was stricken with acute appendicitis while traveling by air from Washington to Pittsburgh on March 11. He was operated upon immediately after arriving in Pittsburgh.

VICTIMS OF TORNADO ARE SOUGHT IN HILLS

Tennessee Relief Workers Progress Rapidly in Rescue Efforts.

Nashville, Tenn., March 6 (A.P.).—Relief workers following the path of the tornado which Tuesday night killed 37 persons in Tennessee and injured more than 400 today had progressed beyond the emergency phase of their activity and were engaged in providing permanent relief for storm victims.

The Red Cross and other rescue workers were collecting funds to aid the needy, distributing food and providing shelter for hundreds of homeless.

Workers clearing away debris searched the ruins of homes, churches and business property carefully for additional victims who might have been buried under wreckage as the twister tore through the State along the Tennessee-Kentucky line. Property damage was estimated at several million dollars.

In the mountains of East Tennessee relief parties were still searching remote valleys for isolated communities which might have suffered from the storm.

The tornado struck such widely separated communities as Nashville, Pruden, Kingsport, Lebanon and Harrogate, as well as others where deaths were reported and families left homeless.

Mrs. Cornelius Whitney Reports $745 Robbery

Miami, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, of New York, reported to police today that $745 in cash and some jewelry and cosmetics were stolen from her yacht, the Cressida, at the Municipal Yacht pier last night.

FUGITIVE PATRICIDE DROWNED IN BREAK

Texas Slayer Leaps Into Mississippi From Boat to Avoid Arrest.

New Orleans, March 16 (U.P.).—An international man hunt for Henry J. Toussaint, fugitive from the Texas Penitentiary, ended here today when the escaped prisoner leaped to his death from a United Fruit Co. steamer as it entered the mouth of the Mississippi River.

Toussaint, who fled the Texas prison while serving a term for killing his father, boarded the ship voluntarily at Tela, Honduras, officers of the Turriabla said. He leaped from the ship, suitcase in hand, apparently intending to flee into nearby swamps.

Two weeks ago the fugitive was deported from Panama, where he had been living since his escape in 1928. He left the boat at Tela, but boarded it again on its next trip. New Orleans officers met the boat when it docked to arrest Toussaint, a former Harvard student. When told of the leap, they authorized a searching party, which found his body in the river near Point a la Hache.

Storms Uncover Sunken Wine Ship

West Coast Fishermen Will Salvage Cargo Lost in 1899 Fog.

Aberdeen, Wash., March 16 (A.P.).—If Congress legalizes wine, things will be just about right for fishermen here, who said today recent storms had uncovered the old wine-laden barge Ernest Rel.

They said the ancient hulk, bound for Puget Sound in 1899 when it grounded in a heavy fog at the mouth of the Quinault River, contained a "treasure" of choice French wines and brandy.

A CZAR FOR AGRICULTURE.

President Roosevelt's farm relief bill is a breath-taking proposal. It would make Secretary Wallace a czar of agriculture. Farming as an industry would be brought completely under the control of the Federal Government.

The President justifies such a bold experiment on the ground that "an unprecedented condition calls for the trial of new means to rescue agriculture." He frankly admits that it is "a new and untrod path." Every experiment to aid the farmer has been a disappointment. Without mincing words, President Roosevelt proposes Federal control of agriculture as a last resort.

The administration bill is a combination of the domestic allotment plan, which failed in the last Congress; the Smith plan for disposing of the cotton surplus, and the acreage rental scheme proposed by former Secretary Hyde. But it is more sweeping in its grant of power than any previous measure. It would authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to reduce agricultural production "through agreements with producers or otherwise." What more sweeping power of dictatorship over agriculture could be given? In connection with this power the Secretary could provide for "rental or benefit payments" in such amounts as he might deem to be "fair and reasonable." With a few broad restrictions the Secretary could also fix the rate of taxes to be paid by the processors of agricultural commodities for the benefit of farmers.

In many respects the most astonishing section of the bill is that which gives the Secretary of Agriculture power to require a license of any processors, associations of producers and other agencies engaged in handling any basic agricultural commodity in interstate or foreign commerce. An agency engaging in this business without a license would be subjected to a fine of not more than $1,000 for each day of its operation. The Secretary could revoke a license at any time for violation of his regulations. Under this provision agriculture could be put into any bureaucratic strait-jacket which the Secretary might prescribe.

It is impossible to visualize the full effect of this sweeping program upon the American farmer. For 300 years he has been his own master. To nationalize farming on the theory that it is "affected with a national public interest" would produce the most far-reaching social and economic revolution that the country has ever experienced. Agriculture is prostrate, but up to this time it has not been conceivable that the farmers of this country would surrender full powers over their destiny to the Federal Government. Heretofore their desire for higher prices has gone hand in hand with their abhorrence of bureaucracy.

This plan is advanced, of course, as an emergency measure. But it does not have the nature of a temporary expedient. It proposes fundamental changes in the agricultural industry. If the Government once fastens its grip upon the farm it will probably find it impossible to let go without creating a disaster. The actual question raised by the administration's bill is whether the Government shall attempt to make the farmer prosperous by regimentation. It is one of the gravest issues ever proposed to Congress. The desire to expedite farm relief so that it may apply to this year's crops will not preclude a full discussion of this measure.

ECONOMY AT LAST.

Enactment of the economy bill gives President Roosevelt authority to effect vast savings. Since this measure was initiated by the White House and rushed through Congress by administration supporters, it may be assumed that the President will put these economies into effect without delay.

The economy act is a notable achievement for which Congress as well as the President merits high praise. That measure has been extensively misrepresented as an assault upon the Constitution. Foes of economy in the Senate tried to defeat the measure on the ground that it would make President Roosevelt a dictator. But that argument was crushed by a mere reading of the measure.

Some confusion arises, so far as the public is concerned, from the fact that Congress has always prescribed in great detail the exact allowance which each class of veterans should receive. The economy act does not give the President authority to upset this labyrinth of pension laws. Those statutes are suspended or repealed by the act itself. It wipes out most of the veterans' legislation that has been passed in the last ten years and puts in its place a new law under which certain veterans "may be paid a pension" when the President approves and Congress appropriates the necessary funds. Its effect, in general, is to sweep away the legal right of all veterans to pensions, and make the privilege of drawing pensions subject to executive as well as legislative restrictions.

The authority of Congress to delegate administrative powers of this kind to the President or to a commission appointed by him is well defined. It is true, of course, that Congress can not give up its legislative powers to either the executive or judicial branches of the Government. The Supreme Court has spoken very clearly on that subject. But Congress may delegate to the President or his agents authority to put in operation principles laid down by law.

In the Goodrich Transit case the Supreme Court set forth this principle in the following language:

> The Congress may not delegate its purely legislative power to a commission, but, having laid down the general rules of action under which a commission shall proceed, it may require of that commission the application of such rules to particular situations, and the investigation of facts, with a view to making orders in a particular matter within the rules laid down by Congress.

The economy bill was undoubtedly drawn with this decision of the court in mind. Without attempting to prescribe what pensions each group of veterans should receive, it fixes the minimum and maximum amounts that may be allowed for disability or death suffered in military service during the war. The administrative details only are left to the President or to the Veterans' Administration which is under his control.

Similar power is used by the Interstate Commerce Commission in the fixing of freight rates, and by the President, with the aid of the Tariff Commission, in changing rates of duty that may be too high or too low to equalize the costs of production in the United States and foreign countries. Congress has laid down the general principles, and executive agencies apply those principles to individual cases. This is the only way in which regulatory powers may be intelligently and efficiently administered.

Aside from the national emergency, there is good logic in the application of this principle to pensions. To have candidates running for office on a platform of bigger and better pensions is demoralizing to any Government. The effect of the economy act should be to take veterans' doles out of congressional politics and thus elevate the standard of American statesmanship.

AN ARMS PROPOSAL.

Norman H. Davis has been appointed chairman of the American delegation to the disarmament conference, with the rank of ambassador. He will proceed to Geneva at once, to assist in bringing about an agreement among European powers, if possible, which will relieve present tension. President Roosevelt is adhering to the policy of his predecessors in emphasizing the willingness of the United States to co-operate in reduction of armaments for the furtherance of world confidence and peace.

In the meantime Prime Minister MacDonald, in the thick of the fray at Geneva, is doing his utmost to prevent a break between the two camps into which Europe is now divided. Declaring that "we can almost hear the very fabric of our civilization crackling about our ears," the British statesman bluntly proposed a peace plan yesterday which contains these radical propositions:

> Reduction of tanks and heavy field guns and prohibition of air bombing; abolition of military aircraft with guarantees against conversion of civil aircraft into fighting machines.
> A pledge by signatories of the Kellogg pact to confer in case of a breach of the pact.
>
> To fix the number of effectives in European armies as follows: Germany, 200,000; France, 200,000 for home defense and 200,000 overseas; Italy, 200,000 for home defense and 50,000 overseas; Austria, 50,000; Hungary, 60,000; Bulgaria, 60,000; Poland, 200,000; Roumania, 150,000; Czechoslovakia, 100,000; Soviet Russia, 500,000.
>
> To extend the London naval treaty to Italy and France, with permission to Italy to build a vessel to balance the French cruiser Dunkirk.

Mr. MacDonald suggested that this arrangement be continued for five years, during which time conciliation committees would endeavor to settle European political problems. Admitting that guarantees against military conversion of civilian planes would be difficult, he proposed that limitation be fixed on a quantity basis, as follows: For the United States, Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy, 500 planes each, with smaller amounts for the other nations.

Naturally, these proposals may be expected to cause a furore in Germany and France. While Germany's military force would be increased by 100,000, France's army would be reduced about 200,000. It is a foregone conclusion that France will not agree to either proposition. Chancellor Hitler may be encouraged by this proposal to make even more bellicose demonstrations, the result of which would be an increase of French military preparations.

Mr. MacDonald and Sir John Simon are to confer with Premier Mussolini. Later a conference by the heads of the British, French, Italian and German governments is hoped for, but probably it will not materialize.

The menacing fact underlying disarmament proposals is the militaristic trend of Germany. As Hitler develops his plans France and Poland prepare for the worst. Mr. MacDonald seems to believe that Premier Mussolini can still the troubled waters by keeping Hitler in doubt as to Italy's readiness to take sides with him against France.

The MacDonald plan bristles with such contentious items that it may be suspected that his purpose is to withdraw it after it has served the purpose of inducing the powers to make a convention embodying the minor proposals already tentatively agreed upon at Geneva. The British statesman hopes to hold the governments in conference, even if they quarrel, rather than risk the breakdown of the conference at a time when the powers are both apprehending and preparing for war.

BEER IN SIGHT.

The Senate has passed its own beer bill. Conferees will endeavor to reconcile the House and Senate bills, and doubtless they will succeed. Opposition to the measure in the Senate was not formidable or prolonged, and this is just as well, since the country has decided upon a change of national liquor policy.

Many States, containing the great bulk of the population, are ready to produce beer. The method of marketing beer will differ in these States, and the rates of State taxation will differ also. Probably much experimenting will be done before a satisfactory system of dispensing beer has been worked out. Keen rivalry among brewers is beginning. Hopes of great revenue may be destroyed by double Federal and State taxation.

The difficulty of protecting dry States against beer from adjoining wet States will soon become apparent. This feature of the new regime, together with the danger of restoration of obnoxious saloons, should engage the attention of brewers who are anxious to hold public favor.

Ramsay MacDonald asks France, for the sake of peace, to agree to cut down her army by one-third and permit Germany to double its army. Mon Dieu! Simply for the sake of peace?

"It is a new and untrod path," says President Roosevelt to Congress, referring to the emergency farm plan. But the new Congress likes new paths.

Can Uncle Sam take charge of agriculture? Ask the banks what they think of Uncle Sam's powers.

CURRENCY AND CHECKS

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

The new paper currency seems sure of ready public acceptance. The public, accustomed to a great diversity of currency, is not in the habit of discriminating among the divers sorts. This should assure the new notes a good reception at the outset. Their purchasing power remains to be established and is likely to depend on the extent of the resumption of payment by check and also on the allied matter of how great shall be the outstanding total of the new paper.

Parity of this and other forms of our currency seems, at least for the moment, assured in fact. It is assured in law, by the statute creating the notes, and the Government will no doubt make good the exchangeability of this and lawful money in so far as the present and any future interdiction on specific kinds of money shall not prevent.

The check dollar is in some ways more important than the currency dollar. That it may retrieve its previous great utility, banks must resume their checking functions widely and generally but without falling back into the old situations of weakness. The prime effect of the President's proclamation has been to make people stop wondering whether a bank will close and to put the emphasis on whether it will be allowed to reopen. Banks once open are likely to stay so. That should make checks on them again welcome.

The dollar abroad remains for the present unsupported by gold. Mr. Kent, the competent veteran of the war time, is again to regulate foreign exchange, within rigid restrictions, to prevent a further flight of the dollar. The first quotations of the dollar in foreign moneys were favorable as compared with the last before total interruption of exchange, and the balance of international payments appears still to run in our favor, thus tending to support the demand for our dollars.

It remains conceivable that the present favorable situation might be hurt by an agitation to force ever greater issue of the new currency dollars beyond emergency needs. That might upset the exchangeability of the new dollars with the old, again disturb banking and hurt the dollar abroad. It lies with the administration to keep watch against this risk.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

FOREIGNER.

Oh, whether he speak in French or Greek
This fact of him still is true,
He'll have need for a friend to his journey's end
And need for a task to do.
As the swift hours go he will hungry grow,
He will wince at the clutch of pain,
And his prayers prove all in vain.

He may dwell afar, where the tropics are
Or north where the cold winds blow,
But why should we sneer at his customs queer,
When under the skin we know
Till the day he dies he will share our sighs,
Find peace in the self-same way,
And haste with delight with the dusk of night
To share in his youngsters' play?

Foreigner, yes, we may that confess
In habits and language strange,
But brother to all in the great and small
Soul customs that never change.
As you and I he will sometimes cry
When sorrows his life invade,
And as you and I was he born to die,

Banquets Are Given Only to Men Who No Longer Need Anything to Eat

By ROBERT QUILLEN

In northern Alaska, a regular diet of caribou meat has made the wolves uncommonly large and formidable. When meat is plentiful they cooperate and share their prosperity, but woe to the one that is wounded when meat is scarce.

His need proves his undoing. He may whine for cooperation in his extremity, but his weakness serves only to invite destruction. He is devoured.

To be helpless, or to confess the need of help, is always a fatal error among any kind of wolves.

In every community there are old people whose happiness depends on the good will and compassion of their grown children.

If they are rich enough to pay for service and have not yet made division of their wealth, they are seldom permitted to be lonely. Their senility is eccentricity and their childishness is quaint.

But if they are wholly dependent, their helplessness seems to destroy all compassion. The fact of their need turns pity to indifference. They are nuisances because they are defenseless.

How do you explain it? Is it the cost of feeding the old people that makes the children resentful and thoughtlessly cruel? Surely not, for those who can least afford the burden usually accept it with least complaint.

Observe the way of a man with a maid. While she is independent and unmoved by his pleadings, his longing for her gives him no rest. But once she surrenders and he realizes that love for him has made her helpless, his ardor promptly cools and he makes plans to be rid of her.

In each mated couple there is one who loves more than the other and the one who loves less is independent and a little overbearing. The other's slavery to love invites tyranny and neglect.

Or observe the world's reaction to ill health. Yesterday the man was in his prime and asked no favors, and the world lifted its hat in tribute to his independence. Today he seems helpless and the world feels superior and a little scornful.

Perhaps you have none of that wolf trait. But to whom would you more willingly lend a dime—to Henry Ford or to a hungry hobo?

The world loves a winner. If you would win its support, you must at any cost conceal the fact that you need it.

POLITICAL COMMENT

How Congress Can Help.

New York Herald Tribune.

The President has understood both the true nature of the National problem and the soundest method of attack upon it. His request to Congress is admittedly a difficult one for that body to accede to. The banking act trod on the toes of no powerful minority and broke down no legislative fences; the speed with which it was passed was admirable but involved no immediate sacrifice. Now the President is asking the Congressmen for a somewhat sterner brand of courage, but that very fact only makes it the more essential that they respond. Indeed, unless they do respond it is unlikely that any real advance is possible; on the other hand, in rising to this occasion they will not only have an overwhelming present opinion behind them, but they will establish a new confidence in their intelligence and patriotism which will provide the firmest of all bases upon which to found recovery.

Regulation of Beer.

Baltimore Sun.

It will not do for the States to await the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to assume their renewed responsibilities. Some thought will need to be given to the regulation of the legalized beer traffic, and the fact that the beer bill is to become effective within 15 days after its enactment should spur the State authorities to prompt and thoroughgoing study of the obligations the act will bring. The old controversies of the prohibition era are liquidated. They need not concern us now. Our task is to lay the foundations of a practical system of regulation that will take account not only of the egregious errors of the prohibition regime, but will also avoid the abuses of the preprohibition system.

The Wicked Partner.

New York Times.

The French are now exercised by the activities of the Nazi storm troops, particularly in the demilitarized zone 50 miles east of the Rhine established by the Versailles treaty. If the Nazi troops are part of the German military forces, as they have been in practice for some time, the treaty provisions limiting Germany's armed strength and affecting the demilitarized zone are being violated. If France protests, will Germany reply that the Nazi militia is only a private organization?

In Soviet Russia for many years a distinction was insisted upon between the Soviet government and the Communist party, the latter being a purely unofficial organization. Recently the pretense has worn thin. But if international exigencies should demand it, we may have it again pointed out that Stalin is merely the secretary general of the Russian Communist party and does not draw a Soviet salary.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Collective Buying Forces Farmer to the Wall—Government Must Come Closer to the People.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Our sins nationally and as individuals have been so grievous, one is forced to the conclusion that the great God has sent confusion into the counsels of men as of tongues at the Tower of Babel. Legislation that seemed necessary and imperative has been fundamentally wrong and opposed to the best interests of our people and void of common sense. For instance, the "seed and feed" loan to farmers (except in drought sections) has resulted in increasing surplus to farm products, a 'two years' supply of some now on hand.

It is a very poor farmer that does not save enough seed for his own use, and if one did not or would not his neighbors would see that he had at least seed enough to feed his family. The logical thing to have done was to use that Government money in paying his taxes and stop foreclosures until times had become normal for a couple of years. Automatically these huge surpluses would vanish and prices of commodities and land values would rise.

Every one knows the farmer is an extreme individualist, the world over—always has been, always will be. It is the spirit that has made America great; but he has been forced into cooperative selling to meet the ever-growing menace of cooperative buying. If the law of supply and demand is to function properly and we are to have a free and uninterrupted market, collective buying must be tabooed or prevented by law. The so-called gentleman's agreement (I fail to see the connection) must be tabooed.

The farmer has very little more to say what he shall receive for his year of labor than the man in the moon. So we have, due to collective buying, the farmer attempting to meet it by collective selling, and then the Government forced into business by loaning the farmer money in order to try to save the situation, thus completing the vicious circle. One has his finger on the start of the disease in collective buying.

Land is the foundation of all wealth and credit—the 50-foot lot in city, small farm, or broad acres. All we eat and wear comes from it. Nations go to war for land. Japan goes to war for Manchuria land. This being a machine age, it must stand the greater burden of taxation.

It is absolutely necessary to bring the Government closer to the people, and that our President speak to the people at will. Our President has the best wishes of all true Americans.

JOHN B. HOOD.

Jonestown, Miss.

Foresees Great Change in Bank System—Government Regulation, as of Public Utility.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In reading the opinions you print on the question whether the Government should guarantee banking deposits one may perceive that this is a moot question only because of the various extraneous conditions by which it is accompanied in the minds of the several respondents, as that banking is a private business into which the Government should not intrude, or that some banks are not worthy of a Government guarantee, or that all banks would deteriorate if a responsibility properly theirs were assumed by the Government. None of these objections has any bearing on the real meaning of the question, which is, "Do we need a banking system whose strength is the strength of the Government itself?" To ask it is to answer it.

Such a system will amount practically to a bank of the United States, with branches all over the country. Perhaps we can come near enough to it, through regulation such as we now apply to the railroads and other utilities that must be monopolies. We have never thought of banking as a monopoly; and, therefore, some banks have made fortunes for their owners from the money of their depositors, and others have ruined both their owners and their depositors. In either case there is a failure to perform the maximum possible social service. We have thought of banking as a private enterprise like manufacturing or storekeeping; and, therefore, when a bank has lost our money, lent by it on poor security, at high interest paid to it, not us, we have put it through bankruptcy like any honest tradesman. The thought that to use money intrusted for safekeeping for the bank's profit but at the owner's risk is hardly the act of a man of probity has been lost sight of.

But now we can see clearly: Banking, to give us most service at least cost, must be a monopolistic function; it must be an interstate function; and, if not a Government function, at least a Government-regulated function. R. HOWARD CLAUDIUS.

Japan Bursting Into Manchuria as a Matter of Life or Death.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Viscount Matsuoka has stated at Geneva that the position of Japan in Manchuria is similar to the one of England in the Suez Canal and of the United States in the Panama Canal. Although the comparison is stretched and not very fitting, no one can deny that Japan is vitally interested in Manchuria as England in the Suez Canal and the United States in the Panama Canal. Manchuria is for Japan a question of life and death, the only safety valve for a big population that can not live on a small territory with insufficient resources to provide for all, a population that is also rapidly increasing and does not want voluntarily to commit itself to race suicide. As a great portion of the trip was made by plane, Gov. Thatcher was afforded the opportunity of taking many unique and artistic shots.

This, it is believed, will be one of the most attractive meetings held by the society this season.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

New York.—The conversation I overheard (and it was really not eavesdropping) was about golf and when the courses in the metropolitan district would open up this spring.

"Clearview?" "Salisbury?" "Baltusrol?" floated over, together with talk about clubs, putters and whatnot. I thought at first the three men talking might have been brokers, for apparently there still are numerous men from Wall street moving around town with leisure, even if not so much money.

But when the trio got down to talking shop it developed that these men, who still have the means to play golf, are stage hands from the new huge theaters in Rockefeller Center. And from them I learned that no matter what the theaters may have been to others, they have been a gold mine, in a minor fashion, to them and their fellows.

Each week the show at the Music Hall is changed, which means that the scenery and props for that particular show are moved to the mammoth storehouse some blocks away; and, also, scenery from the storehouse must be moved to the theater for the new weekly show.

There is no time for leisure. Lead after load of scenery must be packed on trucks, hurried to the warehouse—and each move necessitates plenty of stage hands. And all, mind you, at $2.34 an hour.

The wages themselves, of course, wouldn't amount to such a startling sum, but when you figure that the fully-manned crews begin at midnight and sometimes work right through without a stop (except to take a catnap when nobody is looking) until the new show goes in; and that, for overtime alone, they can make $32 a day or so, you see why they can afford to play golf.

SOFTENED BY DEPRESSION.

Depression has tempered and made almost jovial a musical comedy producer, hitherto noted for a choleric temper and biting tongue. During the try-out of a new operetta, for which he enlisted the services of a former opera star, the famous tenor started a display of verbal fireworks, dissatisfied with the placing of a song.

The producer interrupted the rehearsal, rose from his place in the back of the gloomy theater and marched down to the footlights.

Everybody expected a tongue lashing on an historic scale, such as the producer has given so often in the past that they have become his trademark. In a calm voice he remarked humorously: "When I was making plenty of money I could afford temperament. Now I can't."

INCOMPETENTS.

It was the same producer who called one of his staff after a trying day when everything went wrong and said: "If you see any more incompetents around in show business let me know.

"I've got almost all there is now," added the producer, "and I'd like to have a clean slate by hiring them all."

SO THIS IS RENO

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother: I heard a tale today, the spiciness of which took my mind off my own troubles. Do you remember my telling you of a Mrs. Morse, from California, who was here with a Miss Wheatley? And I wrote you how surprised we were when her husband arrived several days before the divorce, and the three of them started off together motoring after the decree was granted. And how they all three came into the Kayes' apartment the night before and she said, "I know the judge will hurry it up if I tell him my husband is waiting." And we teased the Wheatley girl about serving 42 days for nothing, and did she think it was going to lend a sophistication to her past, &c. Well, today I learned that they stopped in Mindon, a nearby town, where Mr. Morse and Miss Wheatley were married, with the ex-Mrs. Morse as the only witness, after which they motored on together to California. I played tennis today with a man who has just returned from California, where he saw them and heard the story. Now, really, would you believe it if you read it in a book? And they all seemed perfectly quiet and mediocre.

The two Englishmen have gone and next Monday Joe and Nathalie and Anne leave. It is terrible to hear them all talking of trains and giving all their Reno clothes to their chambermaids and having trunks moved into their rooms. I suppose I am here forever. I didn't think Reggie had it in him. I still don't. It's those d—— lawyers.

There is a Mrs. Wells in the hotel, here for an indefinite stay for her health. She came with her daughter last year, who was getting a divorce, and the climate agreed with her so well that she came back. A rare case.

Did I tell you I was awakened last Monday with two telegrams of congratulations? From Clare and Tish. They thought, of course, that my papers had come and that I was getting through. When they hear! Best love, ELIZABETH.

Unusual Candies for St. Patrick's Day Found By The Meanderer.

The Meanderer

Finds Food, Flowers and Linen for Week-end Parties—Honors Paid to St. Patrick.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

St. Patrick's greetings are written in green on large white mint patties; shamrocks also are used in decorating candies for the Irish red letter day, and small green and white bonbons with almond paste centers are other candies especially arranged for today's selling for week-end parties. All these delectable bits for special menus are selling in a well-known candy shop on Twelfth street, downtown.

Tulips, daffodils, and other spring flowers make a wide choice for the hostess' use for her week-end party. Roses, too, are in profusion this week, selling for as little as 49 cents a dozen in one flower shop.

Timely and patriotic as a bridge party prize would be the appealing charcoal sketch of President Roosevelt as done by H. Perlmann, local artist. This sketch has captured the serious mood of the President. It sells for $1 in an F street book shop. Some of the frames for the sketch are unfinished, in order that the owner may paint or stain them as desired.

Lace table cloths in the popular ecru tints are in wide assortment in the delightful linen section of a big F street store. The convenience of the lace table cloth for the hostess, the salesman pointed out, lies in the fact that it does not wrinkle as easily as does linen, and does not soil so quickly as does linen. From the linen filet cloth, 72 by 90 inches, for $18, to the machine lace cloth at $1.95, there is a table cover of this type for every purse.

If the week-end party includes serving of tea, a new copper tea kettle, 6½-quart size, selling for 79 cents, in a Seventh street department store, is not to be overlooked.

Hot cross buns, selling daily through the Lenten season in many shops, are specially priced at 23 cents a dozen today in two bakeries in the heart of the downtown shopping district.

Potato rolls, as sold in women's farm-to-home market on upper Wisconsin avenue for 20 cents a dozen, have many customers on the regular Saturday market day.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

WITH innumerable machines and various permanent wave methods there is such strong, keen competition in the beauty mart and particularly the permanent waving end of it, that all the machines and methods have to be up to par in order to survive. Some, to be sure, have a reputation for being better than others. But as a rule it is not so much the machine used, nor the particular methods, that determines the success of the wave.

The two most important factors in the success of a permanent are; first, the condition of your own hair. Hair that is usually very dry should be treated to several oil massages and "conditioned" before a permanent is attempted. For the majority of permanents tend to dry out the natural oil to some extent, however slightly. And even the slightest steaming or baking may leave naturally dry hair limp and lifeless, ends splitting and hair coarsened considerably.

Hair that is usually oily may be normalized by the permanent alone. But excessively oily hair may not retain the permanent.

So there you are!

Hair that has been weakened by illness, operation, particularly where an ether anesthetic is used, or nervous shock, general debility, &c., should be first "conditioned" by scalp massage, brushing, oil treatments, tonics if necessary coupled with general building up of the entire system. My advice to women convalescing from illness is don't have a permanent for a few months. In the meantime, build up your whole system in general and your hair in particular. Then, and only then, can you expect really satisfactory results.

The operator's experience is worth looking into. Has she a reputation of doing good work. Over a period of years? It takes a deft, steady hand and considerable study to know how to handle rods, how to wind the hair just tight enough to produce a wave that will stay in, yet loose enough to avoid a kink. It takes an eye for hair to know at a glance or knowing fingers to feel whether it is fine or coarse and needs very little steaming or baking, or more of it. It takes the ideal, expert operator to know her machine, know her customer, know how to make her customer comfortable, know how to manipulate the machine toward the very best results.

PREFERRING A SHORTER TRUMP SUIT.

MOST people who play much Contract have discovered the fact that there are many hands in which a 4-4 distribution of the trump suit is much more effective than to have a much longer suit, even of six-card length, designated as trump. The reason for this is apparent as soon as it is stated. A long, established side-suit permits the discard of losers in other suits, while no discards can be taken on the trump suit.

Perhaps, because of reading some of my articles illustrating this principle, two members of my staff, in a Duplicate game recently, reached and made a Grand Slam in spades, while other players elected to play for a Grand Slam in clubs because of the honor holding. They found this contract impossible to make. The holders of the North and South hands were Miss Marie Brady (North) and Mr. William B. Tower, jr. (South). The hand was:

North, Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

Miss Brady.

Mr. Tower.

The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♣	1♡	2♣(1)	Pass
2♠	Pass	4♠(2)	Pass
4NT(3)	Pass	5NT(4)	Pass
7♠(5)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—The hand justifies only a single Raise of the club bid.
2—It is unusual to find a hand which justifies a Raise of one of partner's suits and a double Raise of another, but this hand fully complies with that requirement.
3—North now knows that South holds at least four spades, including, probably, the Queen; otherwise South would not have made a jump to game. The four notrump bid is, of course, a Forcing bid, as North visualizes the strong possibility of at least a Small Slam. In any event, the contract of five spades, which might be undertaken, appears entirely safe.
4—South discloses possession of two Aces.
5—The bid of seven is based upon an appreciation of the fact that there is no occasion to worry about the trump situation and South has already shown support for clubs. Hence, this strong suit in the Declarer's hand should furnish discards for losers in hearts and diamonds.

In the play of the hand the adverse trumps broke 3-2 and the contract was made without difficulty. It is apparent that there is no way in which more than 12 tricks can be made with clubs as trump, as the Declarer is entirely unable to find a place to dispose of the losing diamonds in her own hand.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.
East and West not vulnerable; part-score 60.

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF March 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6 a. m. to 7:30 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 4:45 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:15 p. m. and from 2 p. m. to 2:50 p. m.

An opportunity may present itself on this March 17 for you to do a favor for some one in whom you are not interested. Do this, even if it costs you some time and labor, and the chances are that you will be rewarded handsomely. Avoid if possible long trips by motor.

The child born on this March 17 will quite possibly have a morose disposition with not much good fun or humor in his makeup. He will be inclined to be jealous of others.

Born on March 17, you are probably a person of high moral standards and one possessed of a sturdy and upright character; you will never stray far from the straight and narrow path.

If March 17 is the date of your birth, you are undoubtedly a person with some powers of organization. You are systematic and conscientious in the carrying out of your duties. You will quite likely establish yourself as a business leader and person of importance in your community. You are not one to let yourself be bound by the opinions of others. You do your own thinking, make your own decisions and seek neither the acclaim of others if you succeed nor their sympathy if you fail. You are as dependable in your love as you are in your business; you are a devoted and loving mate and a kindly and understanding parent.

Successful people born on March 17: Emily Sartain, artist.
Henry W. Lawton, brigadier general.
Rabbi S. S. Wise, New York rabbi.
Clara Morris, actress, author.
Charles F. Brush, inventor.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Three versions of the masculine mode that would have brought tears to the eyes of Dr. Mary Walker! Bicycling suit with waist cut out in back to the wearer's monogram, flannel lounging suit, and the new overall beach or sports pajamas worn over a jersey pullover. (Disapproved of by Dah-ray.)

BEING a good fashion critic—arm unsprained to date—I have to tell you about the idea of wearing men's clothes, which is supposed to be new, and which is spreading out from Hollywood. Dr. Mary Walker wore men's clothes years ago—so that's how new it is. She had to get a special order from Congress to do so, though—something that Hollywood is gayly avoiding.

It isn't new, and it isn't flattering or charming, and it isn't even interesting, I think. What do you think about a flannel lounging suit like the one I sketched on the full figure? Worn with a high-necked jersey sweater and being the very latest thing in lounging suits in Hollywood. The mannish pajama in silk is one thing; and this "little man's" affair is another. But I sketched it for you so you could see and be foolish if you wanted to. Remember, this one I sketched is not to be confused with the dark silk pajamas in three-piece effects, which are mannish only in style and really quite practical for traveling and lounging.

The evening tuxedo for women is not new, and quite a possibility for certain types. When done in velvet or in lah-may it is both practical and becoming, especially for severe types. But when a certain film star appeared at a premiere in a man's tuxedo and low-heeled patent leather pumps it is time to laugh. All this because she liked herself in such a costume in one of her pictures, when it was frankly a costume and nothing else!

There is more sense to the beach overall, of which I have previously written, and which I have sketched today. This is not too definitely masculine, and quite practical and comfortable for beach wear. And the new bicycle suits, narrower in the legs than previous ones, another permissible masculine style. These slacks are all the rage now, another craze which comes from California, where, by the way, bicycling is having quite a revival—for health and transportation. The monogrammed-cut out back, which I have also sketched for you today, is a fad for bicycling or any other summer sport.

• • • •

After writing and sketching the above I turn with positive relief to my feminine, frilly, fussy, flowered bedspread, which I and the rest of the gang made out of silken, pastel-colored scraps from the scrapbag in our spare finger time! It looks just as though some one heaped the bed with flowers, honestly. And I have told you how to make this, too, in this week's illustrated leaflet of bedspreads—this one and a lot of others. Because sooner or later you will want some new bedspreads, and wouldn't you be glad to find out that you could make them yourself from scraps and remnants? Well just send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet and have all the bedspread designs you would ever want right at your finger tips.

Au revoir.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS.

THE AUTOCRAT KNEW ABOUT IT.

A NUMBER of friendly correspondents have helped out in the discussion of the mental state which causes a person who sees or hears something to think that he has seen or heard it before, although such is not the case. The article which attracted their interest was one in which Freud's comment was given. That scientist terms the condition "deja vu." Several wrote me that the name for it, found in medical dictionaries, is paramnesia. Others referred me to an article on the subject by Burnham. Several related interesting experiences with it. Some of these connected it with physical experiences and sensations and some related it to something beyond the material.

One friend sent in some further dissertation on it by Freud. Another called my attention to what was written about it by Oliver Wendell Holmes in "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table." Perhaps the best way to run this column is to follow the example of our neighbor and lean on our friends. But here is the quotation from Holmes:

"All at once a conviction flashes through us that we have been in the same precise circumstances as at the present instance once or many times before.

"I have noticed the following circumstances connected with these sudden impressions: First, that the condition which seems to be the duplicate of a former one is often very trivial, one that might have presented itself a hundred times. Secondly, that the impression is very evanescent and that it is rarely, if ever, recalled by any voluntary effort, at least after any time has elapsed. Thirdly, that there is a disinclination to record the circumstances and a sense of incapacity to reproduce the state of mind in words. Fourthly, I have often felt the duplicate condition had not only occurred once before but that it was familiar and, as it seemed, habitual. Lastly, I have had the same convictions in my dreams.

"How do I account for it? Why, there are several ways I can mention, and you may take your choice. The first is that which the lady hinted at: that these flashes are sudden recollections of a previous existence. I don't believe that, for I remember a poor student I used to know told me he had such a conviction one day when he was blacking his boots and I can't think he had ever lived in another world where they use Day and Martin.

"Some think that Dr. Wigan's doctrine of the brain's being a double organ, its hemispheres working together like two eyes, accounts for it. One of the hemispheres hangs fire, they suppose, and the small interval between the perceptions of the nimble and the sluggish half seems an indefinitely long period, and therefore the second perception appears to be the copy of another, ever so old. But even allowing the center of perception to be double, I can see no good reason for supposing this indefinite lengthening of the time nor any analogy that bears it out. It seems to me most likely that the coincidence of circumstances is very partial, but that we take this partial resemblance for identity as we occasionally do resemblances of persons. A momentary posture of circumstances is so far like some preceding one that we accept it as exactly the same, just as we accost a stranger occasionally, mistaking him for a friend. The apparent similarity may be owing perhaps quite as much to the mental state at the time as to outward circumstances."

President Termed As Sales-Minded

Roosevelt Knows Value of Advertising, Kobak Tells Club Here.

The Nation has a President who is sales-minded and who knows the value of advertising and publicity, Edgar Kobak, president of the Advertising Federation of America, told members of the Advertising Club of Washington yesterday.

Speaking at a meeting of the club at Raleigh Hotel, Mr. Kobak said an outstanding characteristic of Mr. Roosevelt is his frankness with the public.

"President Roosevelt is sales-minded," Mr. Kobak said, "because he knows the value of selling his plans to the public."

First Lady Takes 'Bumpy' Air Ride

(Associated Press.)

The first airplane ride ever taken by a President's wife was a "perfectly good trip, but very bumpy."

Thus reported Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt yesterday morning as she stepped off the plane that brought her from New York, on her first air ride since March 4.

"I was not disturbed, because I am quite accustomed to flying, and it doesn't bother me; but the others were quite miserable," she observed.

The others included 4-year-old Naomi Rockwell, of Baltimore, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Wells Rockwell, wife of an Army officer. "I sat on her lap," said Naomi proudly, pointing to Mrs. Roosevelt.

Bureau of Standards' Vital Work Reviewed

How the World War brought recognition of the value of the Bureau of Standards to the Government because of the large part played by science in military operations was described by George W. Vinal, physicist at the bureau, in a talk before the Cosmopolitan Club at the Carlton Hotel yesterday.

Mr. Vinal said that previous to the war, 90 per cent of the work of the bureau had been done for civilians. He described the various functions of the bureau, stating that its determinations are based upon scientific facts and are consequently of value to the Government in various ways, including court actions.

D. A. R. Indorse Roosevelt Policies

Message to All Members Asks Strong Backing for President.

A message urging Daughters of the American Revolution to present a solid front in support of President Roosevelt's program has been sent to the 160,000 members of the organization through its 48 state regents by Mrs. Russell Williams Magna, president general.

"This is indeed a solemn hour, when every member of the D. A. R. should stand solidly behind the President of the United States and uphold every patriotic action of the American Congress," said the message.

"It is no time for faltering. Our country has overcome former difficulties. The American people have unflinchingly met disaster in many guises. Fear and panic have no place in the American heart * * *"

Mexican and American Scenes on View Tonight

Scenic spots of western United States and Mexico, including the Rocky Mountains and the national parks, as recorded by natural color photography, will be shown to members of the National Geographic Society at the Washington Auditorium tonight by Fred Payne Clatworthy, who has spent many years making photographic studies of the out-of-doors.

Mr. Clatworthy's camera has portrayed remarkable color contrasts in rock formations, graceful waterfalls and fertile valleys and plains as the tourist sees them.

Final Appeal Is Made For Shoes for Jobless

The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe yesterday made her final appeal to Washingtonians for all shoes that might be contributed prior to the close, tomorrow, of a very successful season during which some 20,000 pairs of shoes have been distributed among the unemployed.

Organized more than two years ago, with headquarters at 727 Seventeenth street northwest and rendering valuable relief service since last December 24, the organization will discontinue operations next winter unless there is a sufficient demand for the service of the agency.

"Mechanization" Lecture Tonight.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ST. PATRICK'S DAY, when the sons of Erin revere the memory of their patron saint, will be celebrated in several air programs today.

An Irish revue, bringing to the microphone several of Ireland's outstanding entertainers, will be broadcast from Dublin, via Columbia and WJSV at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Headlining the variety bill will be Harry O'Donovan and Jimmie O'Dea, recognized as Erin's leading comics. Another feature of the program will be the singing of Maire Ni Scolaidhe, tenor. Irish dance music and folk melodies will be presented by Patrick Kirwan, Seamus Ennis and F. O'Higgins.

Morton Downey will celebrate his third St. Patrick's Day on the air waves with a special program of Irish melodies, including "That's How I Spell Ireland," "A Little Bit of Heaven," "My Wild Irish Rose," and "Mother Machree" (WJSV, 10 p. m.).

The Rev. James A. Geary, of the department of comparative philology and Celtic languages of the Catholic University of America, will speak on "The Irish People in St. Patrick's Time" (WJSV, 12:45 p. m.).

Jessica Dragonette and the Cities Service ensemble will present a group of Irish melodies (WRC, 8 p. m.).

Phil Spitalny's orchestra will feature "Irish Pictures," a medley, on the Nestle's program (WMAL, 8 p. m.).

A St. Patrick's Day concert by the U. S. Army Band, under the direction of Capt. William J. Stannard, will be featured over WJSV at 4:30 o'clock.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT intends to use the radio in reaching the people as frequently as circumstances warrant, but the White House said that he had not adopted any plan of going on the air regularly. It was not true, it was added, that the President will broadcast twice a month.

Mr. Roosevelt believes in going directly to the people in explanation of his program and in appealing for support of his plans. He did this notably on Sunday night to explain the banking situation.

George Henry Dern, Secretary of War, will make his first address as a member of the Roosevelt Cabinet when he gives a "Toast to the United States of America" over WJSV at 10:15 o'clock tonight. The broadcast will come from Boston, where the new Secretary is making the St. Patrick's Day address before the Irish Charitable Society.

ANOTHER speechmaker on the air waves tonight will be Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, who will tell "How America Can Be Adjusted." Senator Long is scheduled to speak from the WRC studios for a half hour, beginning at 10:30 p. m.

One of the most popular cooks in New York Town is Violet, the ebon-hued Georgia damsel who bosses Arnold Johnson's kitchen. She can turn out fried chicken, Southern style, that draws friends for miles around to Arnold's just about supper time.

And she's musical, too, an attribute the baton waggler never suspected until he came home unexpectedly one d . and found her behind the grand piano quavering whole-heartedly to herself. She hastily scuttled back in the kitchen, explaining meanwhile that she was "just waiting for a street car."

The southern California earthquake and the fight in Congress for President Roosevelt's $500,000,000 economy cut, together with the Chief Executive's demand for immediate beer legislation, will be dramatized on "The March of Time" (WJSV, 8:30 p. m.). Another news scene will be the altercation between Carter Glass and Huey Long, United States senators from Virginia and Louisiana, respectively.

Newton D. Baker, war-time Secretary of War, will speak over WRC at 7 o'clock tonight on the subject of "The Inflexibility of Democratic Institutions." He will speak from Cleveland under the auspices of the bar association of that city.

Frances Langford, deep voiced blues singer from the South, and James Melton, tenor of the Revelers Quartet, will be the guest artists with Jack Benny and Frank Black's orchestra on the Chevrolet program (WRC, 10 p. m.).

MRS. HARVEY WILEY, president of the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs, will speak over Station WMAL at 11 o'clock this morning in the regular Thursday morning program sponsored by the organization.

Half an hour later she will be in the WJSV studios to inaugurate a new series of talks arranged by the District of Columbia Home Economics Association.

Phil Baker, of stage fame, will introduce a different idea in radio musical comedy when he stars on the first of a new series of Armour programs over WMAL at 9:30 o'clock.

Which is a reminder that Phil Cook, the one-man show, veteran of nine years broadcasting, will return to the air over the WJZ network on Monday, April 3, at 8:45 p. m., in a twice-weekly series.

GENE AND GLENN, singing comedians, went on the air from a Bellefontaine, Ohio, front parlor the other night. They were there on a vaudeville tour, during which they have been continuing their broadcasts.

When they arrived they found that the only grand piano in town was owned by Sid Lawrence, local theater manager, and they need a grand for their radio act. So a line was run into Sid's parlor from WTAM, Cleveland, and the show went on the air as scheduled.

Gasoline Tax in Many Areas Is 100 Per Cent

Gasoline taxes in many sections of the country are now equivalent to a sales tax on the retail price of the commodity of nearly 100 per cent, according to the District of Columbia Division of the American Automobile Association.

"The gasoline prices," the statement continued, "are those at which gasoline is sold to the customer, minus the tax. The points selected were not necessarily the points of highest gasoline taxation, but the points from which prices were available. In many instances, local gasoline levies which have been superimposed on the State and Federal taxes, were not included."

Air Appliance Concern Reports Sales Increase

Despite the depression, sales have been increasing and the factory of the Airway Electrical Appliance Corporation at Toledo, Ohio, is operating at full capacity, B. C. Milner, president of the organization, told the airway dealers last night.

He was honor guest at the victory banquet at Colliers' restaurant, Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest, in celebration of the sales record established by the local branch. Between 50 and 60 dealers and their wives attended the banquet.

Disbursing Commission Abolition Asked in Bill

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 16.—A bill by Senator Robert G. Milton, Montgomery County, to abolish the disbursing commission of that county, was among a group of new legislative proposals introduced in the Maryland Assembly today.

Dr. George Edmunds, of the Montgomery delegation in the House, sponsored another property tax sale bill. It would authorize the county commissioners to purchase properties for delinquency in special assessments, and to issue certificates of indebtedness secured by the proceeds from property redeemed, or from the sale of such property.

Stocks Continue Advances In Defiance of Profit-Taking

Shares closed with an average net gain, but improvement was moderate, in many instances fractional.

Stocks offered stubborn resistance to profit-taking; at one time in the morning the price range for many issues was 1 to 3 points higher, but when the enormous volume was considered—the ticker ran eight minutes behind for some little time—it was apparent that offerings were substantial. Demand, nevertheless, more than kept pace with supply and net losses at the finish were both scattering and small. The change in the composite price was a rise of nine-tenths of a point against Wednesday's rise of 7.7. Volume was 3,301,085 shares, of which more than half changed hands up to noon.

That stocks were able to close higher, on balance, after Wednesday's strenuous market was favorably hailed in Wall street, which had regarded some "correction" as inevitable. Farm implement, food and "beer" issues commanded good support throughout; a number of standard industrials also moved ahead. Rails moved narrowly.

Net gains of fractional proportions were the rule for U. S. Steel, General Electric, American Can, General Motors, Sears-Roebuck, Chrysler, Eastman, American Telephone and Bethlehem Steel. Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel preferred, Public Service of New Jersey, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Dupont and Union Carbide eased fractions to slightly more than a point. Norfolk & Western lost one-fourth of yesterday's 4-point rise. Case was up 4, International Harvester, 1⅝; Owens Illinois Glass, 3¾; National Biscuit, 1⅜; Crown Cork, nearly a point.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—The tone was more cheerful and trading was active on the stock exchange here today following yesterday's buoyant resumption of trading in Wall street. Transatlantic issues were especially active but closed below the best prices of the day. U. S. Steel at one time showed an advance of 6 points. Industrialism shares, gilt-edged securities and German bonds were in good demand. Gold mining shares were easy. The closing was steady.

Paris—Prices on the bourse spurted upward in revived activity as a result of yesterday's Wall street strength. International Shares led the advance. French rentes were again weak. The market closed irregular.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse were firm in sympathy with yesterday's strength in the New York market. The closing was unsettled.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

Treasury receipts for March 14 were $85,265,248.73; expenditures, $17,906,002.75; balance, $166,529,284.94. Customs duties for 14 days of March were $3,442,375.73.

CURB CLIMBS AGAIN; PACE SLOWS DOWN

Commodity Stocks Continue to Lead Upswing; Sales, 380,000 Shares.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—After climbing to sharply higher levels in early trading today, various curb stocks began to show signs of tiring under the rapid pace of the advance since yesterday's opening.

Despite this slowing down the market, as a whole, again presented a strong front and closing levels ran from 2 to 8 points higher over a wide variety of issues. Volume was 380,000 shares, exceeding yesterday's turnover by 60,000 shares.

The so-called commodity stocks continued to lead the upswing, although utilities, through the medium of new leaders, furnished many of wide gains.

There were jumps of 4 to 6 points in Electric Bond & Share senior shares, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, American Superpower first preferred, Pennsylvania Water and United Gas preferred. Many of the utility equity stocks closed higher, but at some discount from the highs.

Following yesterday's gains such issues as Deere & Co., Standard of Indiana, Newmont Mining, Montgomery Ward A, Great Atlantic & Pacific, Pepperell Manufacturing, and Aluminum Co. compiled substantial advances.

Nearly $500,000,000 Gold Mined in '32 Sets Record

Geneva, March 16 (U.P.).—More gold was dug out of the ground in 1932 than in any other year in history, incomplete figures received by League of Nations experts indicated today.

The experts said that when final figures are available it was believed they will show nearly $500,000,000 in new gold was mined during the past year.

They said that the increased worth of gold, due to the fall in wholesale commodity prices, has made gold mining more profitable than at any time of which there is record, including the famous gold rush days of the last century.

Mines in South Africa, which normally produce about 55 per cent of the world's gold, increased their output by about 8 per cent last year, it was estimated at the league. Reports from Soviet Russia indicated a greater gold production there than at any time since the World War.

There were reports of extensive new gold deposits discovered in Siberia. New deposits also are reported in northern South Africa. The extent of the new fields is not known.

Canada, Australia and Sweden have reported increased gold production in 1932. In Australia, the gold mining industry was dying until it received a new lease on life by the rise in gold prices. Mines once unprofitable are now being developed by the use of unemployed into paying propositions.

In Sweden, a process originally financed by the late Ivar Kreuger, "match king," has been found to separate gold from a low-priced ore containing a high percentage of arsenic. Originally, the enterprise sought the arsenic as a main product and the gold as a by-product. Now that gold is more valuable again, it has become the principal product and arsenic a secondary consideration.

Reports to the league say that vast gold fields have been found in the Kenya Colony, in Africa, and a new "gold rush" was anticipated.

In the United States, about 200,000 unemployed were reported to be panning gold, successfully in the Rocky Mountains.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Moderate buying of cotton goods followed the reopening of cotton exchanges today on higher price levels than when they closed on March 6.

Most purchasers wanted early cloth deliveries. Many buyers declined to pay advances until they see more of the course of cotton values. Rayon sales are lighter without change in prices. Burlaps were quiet and steady. Wool goods are moving slowly.

BANK RATE UNCHANGED.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank announced no change today in the rediscount rate of 3½ per cent.

BONDS AGAIN HIGHER AS U. S. ISSUES LEAD

Profit-Takers Defied as Rise Continues; Sales up to $14,953,000.

New York, March 16 (A.P.).—Profit taking barriers failed to stop the speeding bond market today and further gains ranging from 1 to 6 or more points were recorded by most listed loan categories.*

United States Government issues again showed the way to higher levels with advances of fractions to around 2 points, although they, like a number of corporate bonds, failed to hold their best quotations of the day. The utilities, industrials and rails ran a neck and neck race and were all even at the finish. The foreign section was somewhat irregular.

The trading volume was expanded quite sharply over yesterday's aggregate, sales totaling $14,953,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans advanced 1.7 points.

High grade as well as speculative mortgages participated in the upturn. The renewed cheerfulness of traders and investors apparently reflected growing confidence in Federal financing plans, the passage of the administration's economy bill and prospects that Easter money conditions would follow the rush of hoarded funds back to the rejuvenated banks of the Nation. Fears of any drastic currency inflation seemingly were evaporating.

WHEAT VALUES SOAR IN FEVERISH TRADING

Profits to Farmers Placed at $50,000,000 on Day's Sales.

Chicago, March 16 (A.P.).—In a whirlwind of almost feverish trading today, grain values shot skyward to the extent of $50,000,000 benefit for farmers alone. Profits to grain traders also rose into millions of dollars.

Additional huge gains would undoubtedly have been realized both by producers and speculators but for emergency measures enforced to limit price fluctuations to an extreme of 5 cents, either up or down, from the latest previous day's finish. These emergency measures, which will be removed after the close tomorrow, were intended to prevent possible undue wildness of the markets, and to avert any consequent dangerous strain on credit facilities.

Authority for the emergency course pursued by the Chicago Board of Trade and other organized exchanges was the grain futures act, adopted by Congress many years ago and still unrepealed. Further authority was contained in grain exchange rules long since established at the request of the Federal Government.

Confidence Is Aid.

Widespread revival of public confidence in commodity values after the ending of the bank holiday period was the chief reason that traders advanced to explain the buying stampede witnessed today. The soaring of prices swept practically the entire list of grains upward in less than a minute to the topmost limit attainable today. It was estimated buying orders for 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 bushels of wheat alone were unfulfilled because of the rapid rise of the market and the relative scarcity of sellers.

With only slight transient recessions at any time today, wheat closed buoyant, 5 to 5½ cents above the finish on March 3; corn, 3 to 3½ up; oats, 1⅞ to 2 advanced, and provisions showing 70 cents to $1 gain.

Wheat tomorrow may rise as high as 60 cents a bushel for future delivery and can not fall below 50 cents. Corn can ascend to 34 cents and will not be permitted to break under 24⅞ cents. Extreme limits for oats are 34 cents and 24⅞ cents; rye, 43¾ and 35; barley, 33⅝ and 26⅝. A year ago Chicago closing prices for wheat ranged from 58⅛ to 62 cents; corn, 39 to 42¾ cents, and oats, 24⅜ to 25½.

Trading Pits Crowded.

Trading pits and the spectators' gallery on the Board of Trade were crowded to capacity today, and throngs on the exchange floor were the largest ever known on a regular business day. Aside from the evidence of restored public confidence, little was talked of except news that President Roosevelt would send to Congress a message indicating an immediate effort to get an agreement among wheat exporting countries to restrict wheat production to the world's present consumption or a little below.

Estimates of $50,000,000 profit to farmers by today's rise of grain prices were based on the indicated amount of grain in United States farmers hands on March 1, as shown by latest unofficial returns.

Corn and barley purchases were reported as having been stimulated by beer legislation.

COTTON PRICES GAIN ON RUSH OF BUYING

May contracts sold up to 6.97, the highest point touched by that month in the local market since last October. This advance encountered heavy realizing, coupled with some Southern and foreign selling, but offerings were absorbed on comparatively moderate reactions, and after selling off to 6.66 May closed 6.77. The final tone of the market was barely steady at net advances of 51 to 60 points.

The opening was 52 to 86 points higher in response to heavy trade and commission house buying attributed to increasing confidence in the general business outlook and stimulated by the very firm showing of the Liverpool market.

Buying Pours In.

Buying orders appeared to be pouring in from Wall street, the West and New Orleans. The advance extended to 6.90 for March and 7.50 for October, with the active months showing net gains of 72 to 94 points during the early trading. This was sufficient to attract a good deal of realizing as well as considerable Southern and Liverpool selling. The latter was particularly in evidence toward the end of the first hour and prices eased off to 6.62 for March and 7.10 for October or about 28 to 43 points from the best.

The pressure subsided after the Liverpool close and prices recovered the greater part of the setback on a continuation of the buying movement which was encouraged by the favorable action of the grain and stock markets. March closed at 6.69 and October at 7.17 with the general list showing reactions of 17 to 25 points from the high point of the morning.

Early cables from Liverpool attributed the advance in that market to Bombay and continental buying on expectations of a sharp opening advance in New York. Selling here through houses with Liverpool connections during the first hour was attributed partly to the undoing of old straddle accounts. Exports today, 6,037, making 3,947,730 so far this season. Port receipts, 6,886. United States port stocks, 4,456,675.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was strong on the resumption of trading today on covering and commission house buying promoted by the sharp advance in lard, grains, hogs, stocks and cotton.

Final prices were 40 to 42 points net higher with sales of 29 contracts, equal to 4,350 barrels. Crude oil was also higher. Bleachable spot closed 3.90, March 3.98, May 4.17, July 4.29, September 4.45.

GROUP TODAY VIEWS WORK ON 'ABINGDON'

Society for Preservation of Antiquities Is Sponsoring Rebuilding of Home.

The preservation of "Abingdon," Fairfax County, Va., birthplace of Eleanor Custis Lewis, adopted daughter of George Washington, will be discussed this afternoon at a meeting of the Washington branch of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities.

Only four walls of the historic mansion remain standing. The estate was laid in ruins by fire some years ago. Work was recently started in cleaning up the grounds adjacent to the property and Col. U. S. Grant, director of Public Buildings and Public Grounds, has ordered the same restoration process used in preserving "Belvoir," the home of Lord Fairfax.

The site commands a perfect view of Washington and the Potomac River. It is situated near the Mount Vernon Highway close to George Washington's home.

Trees already have been planted on the estate by the preservation organization and Col. Grant said that further work would be resumed in the early spring.

"Abingdon" occupies 11 acres of land granted in 1669 by King Charles II. The grant originally included 6,000 acres. Alexandria, Va., Mount Vernon and a large part of Washington now occupy the land grant. The site of "Abingdon" was bought by John Parke Custis from Gerald Alexander in 1778.

M'DONALD FATHERS BOLD ARMS PLAN

50 or 60—the man who thinks he is going to get full satisfaction is just a common, ordinary fool."

He warned of the dangers in the present international situation. "We can almost hear the very fabric of our civilization cracking about our ears," he said.

Then he presented the plan, the core of which lies in concrete figures limiting the world's armies and their equipment.

He proposed an army of 200,000 men for Germany, twice the maximum set by the treaty of Versailles, and he quoted with approval the assertion of a German delegate that "either Germany must be given justice and peace, or the world is going to destruction."

Under this new plan the French and Italian armies would be equal in numerical strength to the new German army, but France also would have an overseas force of 200,000 and Italy of 50,000.

Reduces French Effectives.

"It would mean a reduction of about one-third in the strength of the French army. This is essentially what President Hoover proposed in a series of recommendations to the arms conference some time ago.

Mr. MacDonald suggested no limit for the British army. He would fix Austria's total at 50,000, Hungary's at 60,000 and Bulgaria's at 60,000.

The "allies" of France would be given: Poland, 200,000; Roumania, 150,000; Czechoslovakia, 100,000, and Jugoslavia, 100,000.

Russia's army would number 500,000.

The proposed treaty would be effective for five years. During that period special international commissions would attempt conciliation and settlement of political problems now disturbing Europe. Just before the expiration of the five years there would be a second general arms conference.

As for naval arms, Mr. MacDonald would extend the London naval treaty to include Italy and France, and the naval holiday on capital ships to all powers except Italy, which would be permitted to build one ship to balance the new French cruiser Dunkirk.

German Navy Proviso.

His plan would free Germany legally from the naval restrictions imposed by the treaty of Versailles, but actually the German naval power would be fixed until 1936 at its present level.

Limitation of aircraft Mr. MacDonald found more difficult. He admitted that he had been unable to figure out a way to guarantee that civil aircraft would not be converted to war purposes, but such a guarantee is essential to the abolition of military aircraft. He suggested, therefore, numerical limitation and proposed these specific figures:

Five hundred airplanes each for the United States, Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy, with smaller totals for other countries. No figure for Germany was included in the plan.

Hugh Gibson, representing the United States, declared that Mr. MacDonald's proposals had made this day historic. Count Nadolny also praised the plan, reiterating his frequent declaration that Germany is loyal to the principle of disarmament with security for all.

Premier Daladier described the plan as of the greatest importance and promised sympathetic study by France.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

Merian C. Cooper

WHEN you see it a week from today, or some time during the week beginning then, you are going to wonder how "King Kong" ever got on the screen, so you might as well know now as later that in Hollywood there is a man who makes the Sphinx seem talkative in comparison. Not even his employers know his secrets.

He is Willis O'Brien, of Oakland, Calif., a miracle man who can recover the past. He pulls prehistoric monsters 75 feet long out of his hat. (That ought to give you a rough idea of how long-headed he is.) He makes today yesterday, yesterday today. Or so Manager Hardie Meakin of RKO-Keith's informs me.

This Willis O'Brien is the man of the hour on the RKO-Radio lot—or was up to a few minutes ago. Without him, Radio never could have completed "King Kong," the company's major bid for screen immortality, after more than two years of continuous production effort conducted behind locked and guarded stage doors.

For this fabulous picture—one of the most thrilling things ever devised for the screen, perhaps not so consistently realistic as "The Lost World," but infinitely more daring in conception and story treatment than that prodigious revival of the age of ooze—O'Brien conjured, magically enough, denizens of the earth, sea and air that thrived from 7,000,000 to 35,000,000 years ago, including a tyrannosaurus, a stegosaurus, a brontosaurus and a pterodactyl.

Nice little playmates, all of these, weighing way up in the tons, like the winter's coal supply, or the meat rations for an army on the march, or your Government taxes!

The largest of these, the tyrannosaurus—and if I don't get this spelled twice alike, excuse it, please—weighed a mere 30 tons, is 20 feet high and 50 feet long—almost as big as Carnera. The pterodactyl, a flying reptile resembling a kangaroo with Dore wings out of "Paradise Lost," had a wing spread of 25 feet.

These, however, compared with King Kong himself, the 50-foot ape, were mere warming-up exercises for Mr. O'Brien's ingenuity. King Kong has a chest measurement of 36 feet—feet, Mr. Compositor, not inches—and a total poundage of between 15 and 20 tons. This is at least a size and a half bigger than Babe Ruth at this season of the year.

The story of "King Kong" is fantastic to the last stretch of the imagination and could hardly have been contrived by any one less resourceful than that creative wizard, the late Edgar Wallace, or made into a picture by any one less revolutionary and adventurous than Merian C. Cooper and Ernest Schoedsack, whose intrepidity has given us "Chang," "Three Feathers" and other memorable films of primitive intensity and melodramatic fury.

And how poor, little Fay Wray does get slapped around and squeezed in that big gorilla's hand—about the size of a box car. The hand, that is, not Miss Wray!

And now that the subject's up, another famous explorer is coming to town via the screen next Monday in the person of Carveth Wells, a fellow of both the National Geographic Society and the British Geographical Society, whose lectures in Washington are always attended by a large representation of the society's membership.

Mr. Wells has made it his business to subject the grossly misrepresented sport of African big-game hunting to a complete and revealing debunking. Many of his contentions with regard to this interesting topic he demonstrates in "The Jungle Killer," in which he will be seen at the Columbia next week.

This picture is said to contain real thrills, showing nature in the raw and not as it might be staged in Hollywood. The high point of "drama" in "The Jungle Killer" reputedly is reached when the camera records a furious battle between two snakes not on friendly terms, in which one swallows the other alive, the victim being aware of his fate and wriggling in futile struggle to the last inch!

There are numerous other encounters between lions, leopards, hyenas and rhinos—although not of quite so telescopic a nature as the cannibalistic conflict of the reptiles—all filmed in Africa and not staged in Hollywood's backyard.

Mr. Wells, we are led to believe, doesn't know which is the business end of a rifle and shoots his game with a camera only.

One reason why H. R. H. Ben Bernie, King of Jazz, did not play more fiddle during his engagement at the Earle, terminating last night, was, I learn with much regret, a seriously infected hand that caused him no end of pain and inconvenience throughout the local week. A real handicap for any violinist—and I am not punning.

Children who know and love the story of "Pinocchio" have often wondered what they would do if they suddenly found their noses growing longer and longer.

That's what sometimes happens to Pinocchio, the fun-loving marionette, who will visit the National Theater tomorrow morning, March 18, with the Clare Tree Major Children's Theater of New York. Every time Pinocchio opens his mouth to tell a falsehood, he feels his nose grow longer. It's not until he speaks the truth that his funny nose is restored to its normal length.

Now I know why some press agents have looked so peculiar while peddling their high-pressure panegyrics—and what will Jimmy Durante have to say about all this?

Daniel Frohman, dean of the American theater and president of the Actors' Fund of America, informs this desk by letter that he has heeded counsel from Washington and will not attempt another Actors' Fund benefit in the Capital immediately, as he was at first encouraged to do by the splendid success of the Inaugural benefit, given in the Belasco on Sunday night, March 5, with Noel Coward, Beatrice Lillie, Cecilia Loftus, the Duncan Sisters, Fanny Ward, Fannie Hurst, William Faversham and many other notables on the bill. Next fall, perhaps.

By the way, I notice there are still plenty of good seats in Stands 9 and 10, commanding the full sweep of the Avenue.

Or don't you feel like sweeping the Avenue?

WRIT IS THREATENED TO FREE GEM THIEF

Sidmor Asks to Be Present When Half Million in Loot Is Returned.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—Habeas corpus proceedings for release of Harry Sidmor, who admitted he stole half a million dollars worth of jewels, were threatened today by Joe Hirschman, his attorney.

Hirschman contended no definite charge had been placed against Sidmor, who is being held on an open charge "for investigation" while authorities continued their check-up on his activities.

Sidmor asked police to allow him to be present when the collection of jewelry and gems seized in his house is displayed for distribution to rightful owners.

"I know just where every piece came from," he said, and promised to help owners identify their property.

Mrs. Sidmor, who police said battled them when they attempted to arrest her husband, was released and remained at their winter home here with her young son.

Jewelry valued at approximately $81,000 stolen from Grace Moore, the opera star, was among that recovered by the police.

Meanwhile, a man listed as Ralph Krakower, New York jeweler, was held while sheriff's deputies attempted to learn how he obtained possession of about $6,000 worth of jewels, believed to have been stolen by Sidmor. The jewels were found in a collection placed on consignment in a store here for sale.

Police made public the names of persons they believed were robbed by Sidmor here. They were:

Grace Moore, New York operatic star; Mrs. Bessie Wasser, of Chicago; Mrs. Sophie Engle, of New York; Mrs. S. E. Peacock, of Chicago; Mrs. Murray Miller, of New York; Mary Street Horton, of New York; B. F. Barr, of New York; Mrs. Edward B. Bowider, of Rye, N. Y.; Sidney Gooch, of South Rockdale, N. Y.; Mrs. Bertha Keller, of New York, and Edwin Robins, of New York.

Town Cancels Electric Bills.

Cygnet, Ohio, March 16 (A.P.).—Business was optimistic here today. The board operating the municipal light plant voted to cancel all consumers' bills for February service.

ROOSEVELT CONFERS WITH 3 AMBASSADORS ON DISARMING

nesday, but in the meantime he will go over with the President and the Secretary of State the probable trend of the new discussions at Geneva and the contributions which the United States will be able to make to the new spirit.

Mr. Davis is keenly aware of the objections that are anticipated from France to the new MacDonald proposal. The French delegation of any political complexion to the disarmament meetings will reiterate the demand for French security in an even higher key than heretofore under the new MacDonald proposals.

With this in mind, there was detected in certain quarters yesterday in the Department of State an unusual interest in that section of the Democratic platform which dealt with "implementation" of the Kellogg Pact. Out of such an implementation might very possibly come some form of security pact, under this or any other name, designed to soothe French fears of a rearmed Germany. The terms of the Democratic platform were quite specific in saying:

"We favor . . . the pact of Paris abolishing war as an instrument of national policy to be made effective by provisions for consultation and conference in case of threatened violation of treaties."

The precedent for "consultation" under the terms of the Kellogg Pact had already been established when Secretary Stimson invited the representatives of the major powers to his home in Woodley over the critical situation in South America involving Colombia and Peru in the Leticia affair. It is believed that the forthcoming conversations at Geneva may develop along the lines of the consultative initiative of Col. Stimson in order to make possible the general acceptance of the MacDonald plan of disarmament as a basis of discussion, if not agreement.

The first news of the British disarmament plan was brought to the White House to the President by Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador. Sir Ronald revealed to the press the fact that he had asked the President for American support of the new British plan as the best means of settling the war talk that has been rife on the Continent for the last fortnight. The MacDonald proposals were the main subject of discussion at a luncheon at the White House between the President, Secretary Hull and Ambassador Davis. The chairman of the disarmament delegation is believed to have suggested to the President the advisability of sounding out the French and German Ambassadors as to their purely personal reactions to the British proposals.

In the course of the afternoon the German and French Ambassadors also called at the White House. Ambassador von Prittwitz, whose resignation has not yet been accepted by the Nazi government, came driving his own car. He remained with the President for some time. The French Ambassador also called and was with the President a slightly longer time. Neither Ambassador von Prittwitz nor his French colleague would discuss their conversations with the President.

The reaction on Capitol Hill to the MacDonald disarmament proposals was guarded. Both Senator Park Trammell, Senator Key Pittman and Senator Morris Sheppard, chairman of the Naval, Foreign Relations and Military Affairs Committees, respectively, approved the intention of the MacDonald arms proposals as a gesture, but they reserved their opinion as to whether the United States could support its various details.

The MacDonald proposals in themselves were regarded in military and naval aviation circles as well nigh revolutionary. The United States has been active in the promotion of aviation in both branches of the service and the MacDonald proposal limiting the total number of military planes to 500 would mean the practical demolition of the highly developed American military and naval air forces.

However, it was believed possible that some form of compromise might be put forward by the United States if and when this particular subject of the British arms plan comes to the general discussion in Geneva.

The disarmament conference has been sitting in the person of the general committee for some time, but the main work of the conference shortly will be taken up again as soon as Mr. Davis rejoins the rest of the American delegation.

Davis Title Follows Precedent of Years

(Associated Press.)

In giving Norman H. Davis the rank of ambassador in his position as chairman of the American delegation to the world disarmament conference, the American Government followed a precedent established years ago.

Admiral Mark L. Bristol was given the rank of ambassador when he was named high commissioner to Turkey, a post he held from 1919 until 1927, when full diplomatic relations were established with Turkey and Joseph C. Grew was sent as Ambassador to Istanbul.

Gen. John H. Russell, of the United States Marine Corps, also enjoyed the rank of ambassador while high commissioner to Haiti from 1922 until 1930.

W. Cameron Forbes, who was sent by President Hoover to Haiti in 1931 to make an investigation of conditions there, was also given ambassadorial rank.

FRIDAY MARCH 17, 1933 SPORTS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

ACROSS the Potomac from Washington, as the radio says, the prize ring industry is thriving at Portner's Arena despite the depression that has engulfed every other form of commerce. The secret may be one of psychology.

Alexandria is the only nearby outlet for fightless Washington's fistic emotions, and the throngs who take the 7-mile drive to Portner's Arena each Tuesday are rapidly paying off the mortgage of the Alexandria Day Nursery, under whose auspices the weekly bouts are staged.

Perhaps Washington is the good fight town per capita that it is because of the fact that fights here are forbidden fruit, forbidden by the sufficient number of congressional blue noses who delight in blocking every measure to legalize the professional sport. And when wasn't forbidden fruit eagerly sought? Thus the 7 miles to Alexandria becomes a mere jaunt to Washington fans.

Amateurs Did Pros Good Turn.

Baltimore is a good contrast. There professional fighting is legalized under a State commission. The town is wide open for fight clubs with the State commission, which depends on revenue from the fights, eagerly assisting new clubs to organize and hold bouts. And what happens? Baltimoreans wouldn't walk across the street to attend a prize fight. A 2,000 crowd in Baltimore is a rarity.

Perhaps Washington will be a good fight town just as long as fighting is illegal here. To that end, the amateurs are guaranteeing the continued popularity of the professional fights by a strange paradox. The bill to legalize amateur boxing that has already been passed by the Senate is certain to become a law soon, and the amateur organizations have facilitated its passage by expressly including in the measure a clause forbidding professional fights. The Portner's Arena matchmaker is certainly indebted to the amateurs for their thoughtfulness.

District Fistic Colony Growing.

Washington's fistic colony is growing. Last week there was a fight staged at Alexandria for the middleweight championship of the District and next week the District heavyweight title will be decided. Though fighting is illegal in the Capital, 50 boys and men who make their living at the game work out daily in gymnasiums here and in Alexandria awaiting bookings nearby.

It is a pleasing commentary on the enthusiasm of Washington fans when they will go to Alexandria and pay $2.20 for ringside seats to watch local products battle while Madison Square Garden is putting on front rank heavyweights like the Carnera-Schaaf show, at $3.30 tops. Evidently Washington likes its fights.

The secret though may be the type of action that the Alexandria arena has been providing all winter. The milling between Young Van and Henry Irving, despite the fact that both were fighting their first main bout, had the 1,800 fans on the edge of their seats from gong to gong. They will be rematched and the fans will like it again. Such pleasing performers as Petey Sarron, Les Kennedy, Nick Antonelli, Roddy Davis and Bucky Taylor have helped in no small measure to stir the fistic emotions of fightless Washington.

Barry Is Scheduled On Schmeling Tour

Capital Heavy to Fight 3 Bouts; Second Match With Sekyra Likely.

Donald (Red) Barry, enterprising young Washington heavyweight, now bidding for fame in the fistic game, has been selected to accompany Max Schmeling and Jack Dempsey, two former world's champions, during their exhibition tour which starts April 10 in Boston, according to word received here last night from Mushky Jackson, trainer and manager of the District fighter.

During the course of the tour, Barry will fight three star bouts with opponents of outstanding ability. They will be selected in the next week, it was announced.

Indications are that Joe Sekyra, who was given a close decision over Barry in Holyoke, Mass., this past Monday night, will be one of those matched against the District scapper during the barnstorming tour. According to reports from Holyoke, the Massachusetts Boxing Commission has requested a return bout between Sekyra and Barry.

Eagles Annex 130-Pound Thriller

Times-Herald, Brookland, Typo Grays Are Winners.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY pound basketers stole the show last night in the District A. A. U. championship tournament, sponsored by The Post, in a dog-eat-dog contest, which saw the Eagles nose out the Georgetown Boys Club, 22 to 21. In other games, the 115-pound Times-Herald five, of Alexandria, downed the Knights of Columbus, 34 to 23; the Brookland Boys Club earned a hard-fought verdict over the A. Z. A. five, 28 to 21, in a 145-pound class scrap, and the United Grays romped away from the Howitzers, 35 to 14, in an unlimited class game.

In their battle with A. Z. A., which was a rough and tumble affair at times, the Brookland Boys always enjoyed the lead, being in front, 20 to 10, at the half, and holding most of this margin through the last two quarters. Perruzzi, with 13 points, was high scorer of the fracas, with Abelman and Goldberg showing the way to the Frat five.

Eagles vs. Georgetown Thriller.

The Eagles-Georgetown Boys Club furnished hottest battle of the night, these 130-pound speedsters traveling at full speed from start to finish and the enthusiasm of the gallery at fever heat throughout. The Eagles had a 7-point advantage at the end of the half, 16 to 9, but a Georgetown rally in the last two periods all but knotted the string at the finish.

Led by Lomax, the game's high-scorer, who tallied 10 points, the Georgetown boys simply would not give up and they made many friends by their unavailing but scrappy fight. Wellens scored nine points for the winners, with Chism, of the losers, being credited with eight.

Howard scored a dozen points to lead the Times-Herald 115-pounders to victory over the Knights of Columbus five. This game was far from being a walk-away, with only one point separating the teams at the half. The Alexandrians stepped out in the final half, however, to leave the K. C. lads in their wake. Burns scored 10 of the losers' 23 points and otherwise filled the hero role.

The unlimited class fracas which closed the card proved to be just a romp for the United Grays. It was 18 minutes after the opening whistle before the Howitzers were able to ring up their first point and they were trailing, 15-3, at the intermission. They warmed up to their work a little better in the second half, but not enough to give their foes any real competition.

Phillips, with 10 points, and Latona, with 8, led the winners, while Reinold, Cox and Callan were credited with 4 points each for the Howitzers.

Grey Hip, 2-Year-Old, Pays $500.60 Mutuel

New Orleans, March 16 (A.P.).—Grey Hip, a 2-year-old making the second start of his career, won the opening race at the Fair Grounds today and paid the long odds of $500.60 for $2 to win. He returned $354.80 for a similar-priced place ticket and $52.40 to show. In his only other race Grey Hip finished eleventh.

A total of $5 was wagered on Grey Hip's chances to win, two $2 tickets being purchased from the grandstand windows and $1 pasteboard at the infield ring. General Parth, paying $90.30 for $2 at place, finished second.

1933 DODGERS SHOW MUCH PROMISE

Team, Bolstered in Box, 25% Stronger, Says Carey.

(This is the fifth of a series of stories analyzing major league baseball club prospects for the 1933 season.)

THE "Daffiness Boys" have gone from Brooklyn's baseball fields, perhaps forever, certainly for the tenure of Max Carey's reign, and the result is a decided upswing in the prospects of the trolley dodgers of Flatbush.

Max himself, as keen a base runner as the National League ever knew, crisp, decisive, and a man of discipline, will estimate for you the extent of the upswing to the very degree as he starts his second year at the Brooklyn helm.

"I am sure," he says, "that I have made a 25 per cent improvement. On the basis of training camp play, I predict that the Dodgers will have better pitching this year, and I look for no decline in batting punch."

Happy-Go-Lucky Days Are Past.

It used to be different in the days when rotund Wilbert Robinson, the Falstaff of baseball, juggled his pitching selections and finally decided on "what's his name;" when the flamboyant Lloyd Herman, a slugger born, charged fly balls with his skull; when Vance, the dazzler, might pitch hitless ball or be riddled with line drives.

The experts not only could not guess in those days what the Dodgers would do over a season's play; they couldn't even foretell what they'd do on any one given play. Yet the Robinsonian system won two pennants and narrowly missed two more.

The 1933 strength has come in the two places where Carey needed it most—the pitching box and the infield.

On the basis of spring training play and past minor league performances, Max bought himself a first string starting pitcher last winter when he grabbed Walter Beck from Memphis for $25,000. He got another in a winter trade that brought Ray Benge in from Philadelphia. He picked up a third in Owen Carroll, in the dicker that sent Vance to the Cardinals.

Add to this trio Van Mungo, a fastball youngster steadily developing; Lefty Watson Clark, reliable as any southpaw in the league; Hollis Thurston, Lefty Heimach and grizzled old Father Time himself, 47-year-old Jack Quinn, and the answer spells a staff of tremendous potentialities.

Where no big-league first baseman bloomed last year, Carey now has two—Joe Judge, fresh in the National League after eighteen years with the Washington Nationals, and Del Bissonette, all but recovered from a leg injury that laid him low last season.

Tony Cuccinello, at second; Glenn Wright, at shortstop, and Joe Stripp, still a holdout, at third, round out a balancing infield. "Jake" Flowers and Bobby Reis can handle reserve duty.

The capitulation of Hack Wilson for $10,500 a year finishes off an outfield that has the fleet, slugging Danny Taylor in center and Lefty O'Doul, or "Mr. O'Doodle," as the ball players call him, in left. Wilson, who hit 23 home runs but batted only 297, promises to do better this year, but has a rival in Johnny Frederick. O'Doul, who led the league hitters, can hardly be asked to improve that.

With Al Lopez, Clyde Sukeforth and the veteran Val Picinich available, Carey has no catching worries. In fact, he has little of any kind.

Intercity Gun Match Scheduled Tomorrow

The seven-match series of shoots between the Washington and Oriole Gun Clubs, the fifth, will be resumed here tomorrow. The Orioles are leading in the series.

The race is at 100 single targets, 16-yard rise, and trophies will be awarded to the ten high men on the winning team. The 50-target doubles match carries trophies to three contestants, determined by the Lewis class system.

Four classes in the 100-target singles race will be given trophies, three high guns in each class receiving prizes. This match will take place on the grounds on which the Maryland State shoot will be staged.

Glascoe Calls Meeting Of Blue Coals Players

With Wee Willie Glascoe, sage of the sandlots, at the helm, Griffith Blue Coals unlimited baseball team looks forward to the most successful season it has ever enjoyed on the diamond. The team will seek the Capital City League unlimited title.

Glascoe piloted the immortal Shamrocks, who were prominent in sandlot baseball for years. Since then he has managed several other clubs and enjoys the distinction of keeping his teams above the .500 mark.

The first meeting will be held Sunday at 1 o'clock at the clubhouse, 7 Fourth street northeast. All players and any new candidates are requested to attend.

3,000 Watch Steele Beat Grobmier

Steinke, Cox, Davis Triumph in Hard-Fought Bouts.

BY LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

IT was just 10:35 p. m., or 26 minutes after the start of the match that Ray Steele pushed Legs Grobmier's shoulders deep into the downy fluffiness of the mat while Referee Cyclone Burns, his shirt hanging to his ample girth by a couple of threads, toiled off the necessary three counts, to give the Kansas City grappler victory in the feature bout of last night's card at the auditorium. About 3,000 fans witnessed the proceedings.

Steele came back to win after escaping from Grobmier's dreaded scissors hold. But just before he pinned the lanky Iowan it seemed that the latter would take the decision.

It was a typical Water street brawl. Slaps in the facial cavity and kicks in the gizzard were among the various offenses committed. Sheriff Burns frequently separated the boys when one was in apparent danger of strangulation.

Grobmier Has Scissors Hold Twice.

Grobmier secured his pet scissors hold on the cagey Steele only twice during the entire match. Not until the official time-keeper had bawled out the fact that 20 minutes had elapsed did he drape his lengthy underpinning around Steele, but the latter wriggled free after a series of wry faces and grunts.

When Fred obtained the hold a second time it looked like the bacon was going home to the Grobmier family, but again Steele crossed the dope. Steele struggled to his feet, shook himself free and proceeded to throw legs around with the abandon of a youngster swinging a rag doll. Four body slams shook the rafters before Grobmier sank into the mat and into defeat.

The first offering of the night went only 13½ minutes, as by that time Frank Brunowicz had a comfortable grip of Joe De Vito's head and it was enough to convince De Vito that the match was over.

Steinke Wins in 8 Minutes.

Hans Steinke, the German Oak, faced the prospect of losing his union card after permitting Tiny Ruff to stay with him only 8 minutes. A crotch hold and body slam were Ruff's undoing.

In the remaining two matches Karl Davis, a newcomer to Washington pastures, defeated Lou Plummer in 15½ minutes, and Joe Cox polished off Marshall Blackstock in 23½ minutes. A hard worker, Davis piled into Mr. Plummer in a manner that had the former Notre Dame lad beefing throughout the entire match. Blackstock was tough, but Cox was tougher and that's reason enough.

Mid-South Golf Title To Deborah Verry

Southern Pines, N. C., March 16 (A. P.).—Miss Deborah Verry, youthful golfer from Worcester, Mass., toured the championship course at the Southern Pines Country Club in 87 strokes, 1 under yesterday's round, to win the fifth annual 36-hole women's mid-South golf championship today.

Aided by long drives that gave her a decided advantage over the remainder of the field, Miss Verry was able to overcome the difficult she experienced on the tricky sand greens and marched home 3 strokes ahead of her nearest rival, Mrs. Sarah Fownes Wadsworth, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Wadsworth, winner of the Silver Pails tournament earlier in the week, put together rounds of 93 and 85 for a total of 178, 1 stroke better than Miss Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., who entered the tournament as the favorite. Miss Quier made a beautiful comeback today, carding an 82, against a 97 yesterday, for a total of 179.

Bluege's Infield Play Taken for Granted In Fans' Unfair Attitude Toward Hitting

BROWNS HIT HARD IN DRILL

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—The heavy artillery of the St. Louis Browns was unlimbered under a blazing sun today to see how heavy it might be in the attack this Sunday on the House of David pitchers. Carl Reynolds, Sammy West and Bruce Campbell did some heavy hitting for this early in the season.

Tiger Squad Soon To Be Cut.

San Antonio, Tex., March 16 (A.P.).—If Manager Bucky Harris makes up his mind to announce his first cuts in the Detroit Tiger squad over the week-end, some of the 20 players who make the trip to Austin for the opening game Friday may not return.

But with a crop of promising youngsters, those close to the Tiger boss believe he may ponder another week before announcing his initial reduction.

Reds Varsity Down Yannigans.

Tampa, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—Regulars of the Cincinnati Reds went back to batting practice today, annoyed because the Yannigans beat them, 4 to 3, in a practice game yesterday. Red Lucas, recovered after pampering a lame back, did much of the hurling in today's session.

San Jose, Calif., March 16 (A.P.).—Rain cancelled today's baseball game between the Portland Beavers of the Coast League and Pittsburgh of the National League.

Pyne Knockout Victor In Baltimore Match

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., March 16.—Before a packed house Baltimore defeated Washington in an intercity amateur boxing card tonight at Charlotte Hall. Five matches were decided and Baltimore, through the Vorwaerts Club performers, carried off three of them.

Danny Pyne, who made ring history at Catholic University, scored the only knockout. That was when he stopped Johnny Fortuna in the third round. Until the kayo the bout was regarded as rather close.

Johnny Borazzio scored a technical knockout over Leon Shaub, Washington, in the second session. The latter received a laceration and the set-to was stopped.

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, Miss., March 16.—The hue and cry, seemingly raised by both press and public, over the weak hitting of Ossie Bluege has been sort of unfair to a man who doubtlessly will go down in baseball history as one of the most perfect infielders the game has produced. In a sense we have been wont to criticize a great race horse because we didn't like the way his leg bandages were wrapped.

It is not an overstatement to call Bluege the hub of Washington's great infield. Nobody that ever played in a Washington uniform could hold a candle to him so far as the fielding and throwing of balls is concerned, and few outside of Washington are also eligible. He is known and respected throughout the game as possessor of the knack of getting the ball away faster than any other fielder of any era.

Fielding Average Is Overlooked.

We have been prone to overlook a .970, .980, yea, .990 fielding average and point with disdain to his .258 batting average of last year. And the reason is human enough. Ossie so long has been a by-word along defensive lines that we have grown used to him. Grass-singeing grounders that he gathers in with customary ease and tosses over to first base are not noticed nearly as much as if one of the younger and newer men on the club did the same thing. We expect him to make these marvelous stops and throws, and so it comes as no surprise when he does.

But evidently the populace has never quite forgiven him for his hitting, or lack of it. He has saved more games by his airtight playing of his difficult position than many of the more notorious sluggers on the team have won by their bats. He has won games with one-handed stops—and the pitchers got credit.

Sees Better Hitting In Second Place.

Bluege is not one to talk about being misunderstood, but every once in a while things do get kind of under his skin. He doesn't quite concur in the expressed contention that Cronin moved him up to second place in order to make the entire batting list better balanced, for Bluege on top means that the heavier hitters will be shoved down a notch. Ossie believes that he will show to better advantage up there in second.

Look back at Bluege's batting records and you'll see something that most people overlook. Unceremoniously Bluege has gone about the business of piling up a really presentable list of runs batted in during his career with Washington. Long flies that scored men from third, timely hits coming when most needed, and all that sort of thing. Up in second place he'll have a chance to do more bunting, more of his beloved base running (with Manush behind him), more everything. It is a wider field of endeavor than down in seventh place, full of opportunities that do not abound down where he was.

And Along Came Bluege.

You don't appreciate Bluege until something like this happens:

Young Cecil Travis, one of the flashiest kids ever to don a Washington bloomer, was carrying on in swell style on third base the other day. He fielded spectacularly, threw across the field with great speed, if a little awkward, and in batting practice a moment before had cracked out several balls labeled "two baggers—and up."

Then Ossie relieved him. Everything that Travis unconsciously made look hard, Ossie gathered in with the ease of an artist. He caught and threw the ball with one smooth rolling motion that—coming close on the heels of the performance of a most promising rookie—made the kid look like a sandlotter.

Olympics in Germany In '36 Ok'd by Hitler

Berlin, March 16 (A.P.).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler today gave his unqualified support to the 1936 Olympic games, which will be held in Berlin, in a conference with Dr. Theodor Lewald and Heinrich Sahm, president and vice president, respectively, of the German Olympic executive committee.

"I will advance the games as well as all sports interests in every manner possible," said the chancellor.

NatsStudying Base Line Problems

Russell and Burrows Hurl Today Against New Orleans.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 16.—The past, present and future of the gentle art of base running was hauled out into the hot sunshine here this morning and thoroughly dissected by Joe Cronin and his Harmony Boys. As has been the case in every department of the game Cronin has managed down here, the players were called upon to give their own ideas on how to track down runners, or how to keep from being tracked down themselves.

Joe's a pretty tolerant prof. Today's class found a student here and there audibly doubting the theories of the professor, at which supposed treason the professor would stroke his chin, mutter, "mebbe you're right, Luke," and then try out the new ideas.

Utility Men Used In Experiments.

Brainwork lay a foot thick all over the diamond, as the pet plans of a score of players were brought forth, discussed and then practiced. It was a somewhat sorry day for such utility men as Johnny Kerr, Bob Boken, Cecil Travis, Dave Harris and a couple of the rookie pitchers, who were offered as sacrificial guines pigs in the experiment of tracking down runners between the bags.

Walter Stewart dragged out a presentable trick of catching unsuspecting runners off first base by not putting his pitching toe on the slab, yet giving the runner every opportunity to believe that he was going to pitch to the batter. A dozen methods of trapping runners between sacks were discovered, or rediscovered, but it was generally agreed that the only way to run them down was to run them backwards—for instance, a man being caught between home and third should be run always back toward third and likewise for the "caught" runners on other bags—they should not be run counter-clockwise.

Schulte Reveals Iron Arm.

All this mesmerism and unexpected displaying of brainliness came like a clap of thunder to a guy who was always too busy probing a finger around near the bottom of a box of cracker jack looking for diamond rings to realise that the brain might be an integral part of clopity-clopping between those sacks out on the field.

The outfielders played one of the many leading roles in all this business this morning, trying to propel the ball home ahead of runners recently departed from third base. One surprise cropped up here—the mighty arm of Fred Schulte, in center field. It's as good as Goslin's, which is a pretty swell compliment to pay the big Dutchman. Mr. Manush, as usual, was making those tremendous 25-yard throws of his.

A strenuous batting drill finished off the day's work, as traditional a piece of training camp business as the newspaper tradition that only linotype operators are capable of writing the burlesque reviews.

Veterans to Face Tribe Tomorrow.

Here's some good news for the dear old fans who are getting bored with all the literary hash about rookies; Al Crowder, Earl Whitehill and Monte Weaver will pitch Saturday against Cleveland, over at New Orleans, and Walter Stewart will get the nod Sunday, against the same tribe. Eddie Linke or Bud Thomas will relieve Stewart late in the afternoon. They are saving Al Thomas for the Junior prom.

Tomorrow Washington probably will have to play some very decent baseball to beat the New Orleans Pelicans. The Pels, as we who know them intimately call them, are managed by Larry Gilbert, the reformed third baseman. They have a trio of kid pitchers who trimmed Cleveland the other day, 3 to 2. They are Denny Galeshouse, Steve Sundra and Charley Reddock, whoever they are. Jack Russell and Lefty Burrows, one of the juveniles in this troupe, will fling for old Washington, D. C.

President Bobby Burke, of the Sore Arm Society, initiated two new members today, Bill McAfee and Bob Friederichs. Both players and sore arms were reported doing well tonight.

Cassell and Johnson Are Released by Nats

MR. SPONGE SETS ONE OF THREE NEW TROPICAL PARK MARKS

Leros Second In Feature On Card

Mr. Sponge Runs 5½ Furlongs in Fast Time of 1:04.

Race Street, Broadway Lights Also Break Records.

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 16 (A.P.).—Mr. Sponge, once one of the best handicappers in the country in the silks of J. E. Widener, and which was sold to C. Leroy King during the recent Hialeah meeting, ran five and a half furlongs in the remarkably fast time of 1:04 flat to win the Ponce de Leon Handicap this afternoon. This clipped four-fifths of a second off the track record formerly held by Panetian. The American and world's record for the distance is reported to be 1:03 2-5, made by Iron Mask at Juarez about 19 years ago.

Mr. Sponge beat J. C. Ellis' Leros by two lengths to pay his backers $7.00. Happy Scot, representing Joe Edwards, lost the place by five lengths.

Mr. Sponge Draws Away At End.

Mr. Sponge, although finding plenty of speed contention coming from the fleet Leros, made his own pace and was drawing farther away in the final stages, Jockey Coucci having him well in hand. Leros followed the leader closely, but could not make up ground when asked for his best. Happy Scot, outrun early, made up some ground in the last quarter mile to take the show with little difficulty.

Race Street, paying $18.80, drove home a length winner of the first half-mile event of the season for juveniles and created a new track record of 0:47 2-5. The old mark of 0:48 was held by Capsheaf. Her Hero saved the place from Ragtown Belle by a half length. Her Hero broke well from the outside and taking the lead turned into the stretch leading Race Street by a narrow margin, but the winner had the more left for the final drive. Ragtown Belle closed fast to take the show from Bittybit, which bore in after entering the stretch and interfered with Erebus and Goforth.

Third Mark of Day to Broadway Lights.

When T. McCarthy's Broadway Lights scored an easy four length victory in the fifth event and ran the mile distance in 1:37 3-5 it marked the shattering of three track records in one afternoon. Arras held the old record of 1:38 3-5; today's winner beating it by a full second. Silvio Coucci earned a double and two in a row astride the victor. Habberson beat Tela by a neck for the place award. Haggerson took the track and, showing high speed, led Broadway Lights to the furlong pole, where Coucci's mount took charge and easily drew well clear. Broadway Lights paid $4.40.

The elderly combination of Memories Dear and Jockey Bill Kelsay proved slightly best in the curtain raiser. Claremont, the heavily backed choice, lost the purse by a nose, while Hey There was a nose away in a hair-raising finish. Hey There showed the way under light restraint and opened up daylight entering the stretch, but Memories Dear, which forced the pace, finished steadily between the early leader and Claremont and was up in the final jump. Claremont broke sluggishly and ran a winning race under the circumstances.

Jim Macaw Triumphs By a Neck.

Jim McCaw, well handled by the recent arrival from Havana, Jockey Joe McCleary, stuck it out to win the third race by a neck at odds of slightly better than 3 to 1, Polisher, an outsider, nosed Bran Muffin out of the place. Jim Macaw broke with the first flight and taking quick command was nursed along in front until Polisher and Bran Muffin, always forward contenders, both challenged threateningly through the final furlong. Chief Almgren received a good play, but after breaking slowly failed to overcome the handicap.

Live One, 7-year-old gelding in the colors of H. C. Hatch, equaled Prince Tokalon's track record of 1:45 for a mile and a sixteenth, when he took the sixth purse by a length and a half from Clean Play. Major Lanphier was a head behind in third place. The winner caught Shiva after getting clear of crowding at the first turn and always held his position safe thereafter. Clean Play just lasted to beat Major Lanphier, who took the Overland route all the way. The winner returned $14.80.

Seniors of Capital City League Plan for Season

FIVE teams were represented at the organization meeting of the senior division of the Capital City League last night, held at the District Building. The loop will be sponsored jointly by The Post and Municipal Playgrounds Department.

Teams in attendance and their managers were Stansbury A. C., Fred Grittender; Takoma A. C., W. R. Stewart; Mount Rainier A. C., Carson Myers; Georgetown A. C., T. C. Trundle; Goodacre Club, W. A. Bresnahan.

Though baseball is in the air, it has not taken a sufficient hold on the sandlotters to shake them loose from basket ball. Many teams called the sports department of The Post and requested that their names be entered on the rolls of the league, but asked to be excused in order to witness the A. A. U. tournament.

The rules for the 1933 season were briefly discussed, but no definite action will be taken until next Thursday, when the teams will convene again. Tonight the teams desiring to enter the midget division will meet in room 313, District Building, at 8 o'clock.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: Tropical Park, March 16.

Good old Jim Macaw saved your friend Bennings from a shutout today and I am grateful to him and J. McCleary, who did the riding. Three track records were lowered and it was just my luck to have Race Street break one mark to beat Her Hero. Pardon me for harking back to yesterday's comment, but didn't I warn you that Leros, Mr. Sponge and the others, making up the fourth race, were beating each other this winter. Wonder whose turn it will be next time? Mike says stick to Bright Beauty at New Orleans, even if you did go for some of your roll today. BILL.

FIRST RACE—SUPERCHARGE has done enough good running for me to warrant another top spot for tomorrow. Gets in with only 96 pounds and should be in running condition. If there is a battle, I look for ENERGETIC BOY to have a hand in it. TETRARCHAL appears to have the edge on the others.

SECOND RACE—BREEZING ON is a secret that the clockers have been trying to keep under their hats. May hop out in front and never be headed, so I've been told. EVEN PLAY seems best suited for the place award. LITTLE JOYCE for the show end.

THIRD RACE — DORSAYS was forced to bow by a nose margin while running with the backing of the Bennings interests the other day. Seems to be right now and will be mighty hard to beat in this field. INDIANTOWN was shipped over from Havana in good shape and may be second. PRINCE FOX to show.

FOURTH RACE — VON SION is speedy and courageous and seems fit enough to give away the weight. ZORONA has two straight wins to his credit and will be the one to beat. MOON SHY turned in a nifty effort to win the other day and may figure in the stretch run tomorrow.

FIFTH RACE—MUDRAKER parades to the post with only 98 pounds aboard and that way rigged should come sailing home, but not before John Public gets through laying a lot of onions on the line. NEW SUN, under the Whitney colors, may take the measure of PHARAHEAD for the place award.

SIXTH RACE—BILLY CHAMP is in excellent condition and, although assigned top weight, seems capable of scoring here. IMPEACH, off that last, will be out there battling and is the one to beat. DAILY NEWS may get a different ride and figure higher.

SEVENTH RACE—I'm offering a prize of one empty sock to the Bennings reader, if any, who picks the winner of this maiden affair. COURT MARTIAL, GULFELAND and OUR TROUBLE are my guesses. What are yours?

Hitting the Headpin

CONVENTION HALL tonight will be a mecca for those who like their special matches. Nick Tronsky and Ed White, members of the famed Blue Ribbons, will roll Eddie Espey and Whipe Litchfield in doubles, while Tronsky takes on Paully Harrison in singles. White will meet Espey in singles.

The match will be rolled behind the hall's white curtain, which makes that end of the place a stadium. Admission will be 50 cents. The money will be pooled in an effort to raise enough to send a team to the national tournament at Willimantic.

Jim Bucks quintet had a 535 game and 1,468 set in the Nation-Wide League at the hall yesterday. Wilson George had a 129 game and 352 set.

Washington Post bowlers rocked the maples for a 556 game and 1,583 set in the Daylight League at Convention Hall. Sakellson's 153 and 372 were high.

Veterans Administration hung up a couple of new records in the Ladies Federal League when it rolled a 590 game and 1,670 set at Arcadia. Maxine Fleming had a 370 set, another record, while Ida Weinberg cracked the fourth record of the evening when she battered the sticks for a 154 game.

Norman Schroth, captain of the Fountain Hams team of the National Capital League, realized a 10-year ambition last night by rolling his first 400 set—a 407. He led his team to a three-game victory over Judd & Detweiler. The Fountain Hams had 634-619-572—1,825. Schroth posted games of 143—144—120. In the first game Fountain Hams shot a 634 to nose out its opponent by one pin.

In the Lucky Strike Independent League Gene Barrows shot a 145, and Ollie Clark a 392, as Total Revenue with a 597 team game and 1,693 set won all three games from Service Coffee Shop.

Finance came through with a 1,531 game to top the team sets in the Interstate Commerce Commission Examiners League. Depreciation had the best game with 542. Ragan's 366 set and Walter's 129 game were the individual highlights.

Tanner Eisenstein and his Pension bowlers accounted for high game with 542 and high set with 1,564 in the Interior Department League. Angelo Ganna rolled 368 and 157.

JEBY'S TITLE AT STAKE TONIGHT

New Champ to Meet V. Dundee, 2-Time Victor Over Him.

NEW YORK, March 16 (U.P.).—Ben Jeby tomorrow will draw again upon the magic which transformed him from the ugly duckling of the prize ring to champion of the middleweights when he risks his recently acquired title against a chap who beat him twice before, Vince Dundee, of Baltimore.

Jeby, born in New York ghetto as Morris Jebaltosky, will give other champions a lesson in sportsmanship by taking a genuine risk at Madison Square Garden in defending for the first time his title which was recognized in January by the New York Boxing Commission.

Jeby Confident of Victory.

This boy with the big nose, who sniffles and blubbers through loose lips as he bores in, is confident that the perseverance and ruggedness which enabled him to march past the scoffers during his apparently hopeless palooka days, will aid him in turning back Dundee, despite the latter's previous triumphs.

The experts are inclined to ride along with Jeby, believing that the fifteen-round title route will aid him. Accordingly, he has been established an 8 to 5 favorite. Dundee won ten-round decisions over Jeby in 1930 and 1931. He is a better boxer, possessed of superior speed, but the champion hits harder and is tougher.

Jeby made an impressive showing in January when he stopped rugged Frankie Battaglia, of Canada, in twelve rounds, thereby winning recognition as the holder of Mickey Walker's vacated middleweight crown. He is the first Jewish middleweight king since the reign of Al McCoy (Al Rudolph), of Brooklyn, who won the title from George Chip in 1914.

Dundee Following Trail of Brother Joe.

If Dundee should win he would be following a trail parallel to that of his older brother Joe, who held the welterweight championship a few years ago. He would be the first Italian middleweight champion in twelve years since Johnny Wilson, who wrested the crown from Mike O'Dowd in 1920.

Women Golfers Busy At Washington Club

Activities for feminine members of the Washington Golf and Country Club will commence on Tuesday afternoon, starting at 4 o'clock, the initial event of the season to be known as "Golfers' Tea," Mrs. Charles B. Stewart last night announced.

It was decided to hold "Ladies Day" each Tuesday at the club, with a golf tournament or event of interest to take place. On the first Friday of each month a "Ladies Guest Day" will be held.

A putting contest is slated for May 30 at 10:30 o'clock, with prizes to be donated by the women's golf committee. Scotch foursome, tombstone tournament, Tschiffely trophy, Muncaster trophy and club championship tournaments are among the events planned. The annual ringer tournament will begin on May 15 and end on September 15.

LOTT BEATEN BY SHIELDS IN 2 SETS

Mangin, Wood and Sutter Survive in Indoor Tennis.

NEW YORK, March 16 (A.P.).—Thrills and excitement were provided in the national indoor tennis championships at the Seventh Regiment Armory today. Gregory Mangin, defending champion, qualified to meet Sidney B. Wood in one semi-final match tomorrow and Frank Shields blasted his way into a battle with Cliff Sutter, former intercollegiate champion from Tulane, in the other.

With merciless power and precision, Shields, Davis Cup squad member, conquered George M. Lott, jr., of Chicago, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2, to indicate that the final round Saturday may be a duplication of last year's final, where he duelled Mangin.

The champion, Mangin, had a strenuous time of it himself, coming through in the final stages of a two-hour struggle with Dr. Eugene McCauliff, of Yonkers, N. Y., with a bitter three set victory, 10-8, 3-6, 6-4.

Sidney Wood, former Wimbledon champion, put out J. Gilbert Hall, of Orange, N. J., 7-5, 6-8, 6-4.

Sutter Polishes Off. Dr. Kurzrok.

Clifford Sutter at number three, the highest ranked player in the tournament, polished off Dr. Lawrence Kurzrok, New York physician, who furnished the only upset of the tournament so far in eliminating R. Berkeley Bell yesterday. Sutter, unfamiliar with the boards at the start of the week's play, has accustomed himself so well to the lighting and shadows that he eliminated Kurzrok, a determined, hard-hitting warrior, 6-4, 6-3.

Kurzrok was the only unseeded player to gain the quarter finals. The semifinalists represented the top four seeded stars.

Shields' play against Lott, was perhaps the most impressive of the day. Only once in two sets was Lott able to break the tall New Yorker's tremendous service, in the ninth game of the first set, and it did him little good as Shields twice broke the Chicagoan's delivery. In the second set, after breaking through Lott again in the second game, leading four to two in games, Shields hammered over three straight aces to clinch the seventh game, then smashed Lott's service again to take the match.

The Doctor Figures in Upset No. 2.

One startling upset marked the quarter-finals of the doubles play as the troublesome Dr. Lawrence Kurzrok, with John H. Pitman, of Yale, as his partner, eliminated the No. 1 seeded pair, George Lott and Frank Shields, 6—4, 6—7.

The seeded pairs of Clifford Sutter and Dr. McCauliff, Berkeley Bell and Gregory Mangin, Sidney Wood and Edward Burns, advanced to the semi-finals in straight sets.

Kurzrok and Pitman meet Wood and Burns tomorrow and Bell and Mangin oppose Sutter and McCauliff. There is no defending title pair.

BOYS CLUB TITLE GAME.

A hot rivalry involving the Boys Club Optimists and Boys Club Varsity Teams will be dragged out into the open next Friday night when the two meet in a game to determine the championship of the club. Led by Frank Money, the varsity is a slight favorite, but with Paully (Hotshot) Byrne, One-basket Child, and Charley Fyfe on the other side there may be an upset.

The games between the Triangles and Mercury, and Epiphany and Georgetown, scheduled in the unlimited league tomorrow night, have been postponed.

Griffith Completes Team For Announcement Sunday In Post Baseball Contest

WITHIN 48 hours Washington baseball fans will know all the answers to the problem that has been engaging them for the past eight weeks.

On Sunday morning the winners of The Washington Post's Baseball Contest will be announced together with the winning selections which will entitle the fortunate fans to see the opening game between the Nats and the Athletics on April 12 as guests of The Post in box seats.

Word from Biloxi last night was to the effect that Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Club, had completed the selection of his All-Star Washington Team which fans here are asked to match, and had forwarded his selections to The Post's Contest Editor by air mail.

For the past eight weeks fans of Washington and vicinity have been attempting to match minds with Griffith in the selection of the outstanding players during Griffith's career with the Nats from 1912 to 1932, inclusive. The Nats' owner will reveal on Sunday his entire all-star cast, including two catchers and four pitchers.

Walter Johnson's notable record in baseball is in a fair way toward adding another achievement, according to The Post's baseball editor. The choice of Johnson as one of the four pitchers Griffith will elect is unanimous in the opinion of the thousands of fans participating in the contest with the Big Train the only player thusly honored. Not a single entry omitted his name and it is taken for granted that he will head the list of Griffith's pitchers.

BILOXI BUNTS

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, March 16.—Clark Griffith revealed here tonight that he had been the cause of Walter Johnson's sudden cooling over the Jersey City prospect. Griffith wired Walter in the midst of the negotiations, advising him not to invest in the club unless he had backers who were willing to put up as much money as he did.

Griffith's reasons were that the Jersey City plant is woefully run down, the team is without players and later would have had to sign a $20,000 note payable to the league—when $20,000s are not growing on bushes.

Griffith further advised Johnson to stay out of baseball for a couple of years—until things open up.

The boys down here call Bob Boken "Frankenstein"—for short, but the unwholesome nickname hasn't dimmed Bob's reputation down here. The kid at times looks like the best fielder on the club, excepting Oasie Bluege.

The process of changing his hitting stance is going forward very slowly, with Tris Speaker, a recent visitor here, offering one or two suggestions on how to cock a bat.

Dave Harris, the rassler-like outfielder, has aspirations of becoming Joe Kuhel's understudy, along with understudying the entire outfield. Dave broke into the big leagues as a third baseman, but he figures there's no sense of being a third baseman with Oas

MARYLAND SLASHES STILL UNDISCLOSED

Ritchie Says Legislature Must Wait for Itemization of Budget Cuts.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 16.—Returning to Annapolis after giving practically undivided attention to the banking situation for more than two weeks, and finding many other demands on his time with the end of the Legislature session less than three weeks away, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie announced today that it will be out of the question to prepare in itemized form the trimmings he has made in the original draft of his budget for the next biennium in time for formal legislative action.

The budget bills now are before the fiscal committees of the Senate and House. Meanwhile, the cry for economy became so strong that the executive finally made cuts aggregating $2,800,000 for each of the next two years, but he said that as the details are confined to every department they will have to wait until the close of the Assembly session.

The governor has opened a series of conferences with Senate and House leaders with the view of whipping together other important legislative measures, including machinery to control the liquor situation, in anticipation of repeal of the eighteenth amendment by Congress.

Dry Repeal Move Starts.

In connection with this latter issue, Senator E. Milton Altfeld, Baltimore City, today initiated a movement for a constitutional convention to ratify the amendment. The proposal provides for electing delegates to the convention by legislative districts, based upon the representation of each county and Baltimore City in the General Assembly. And in the House a movement has been started to demand early action on the bill to set up a liquor control commission that was introduced several weeks ago by Delegate Hummel of Baltimore City.

In both the Senate and House today major attention centered in committee meetings on many measures that have long been on file. The only measure of general importance offered today was that by Senator S. Scott Beck, Kent County, which provides a fee of $1 to be paid to the public service commission for inspection of gas and electric meters at the request of consumers.

Montgomery Bill Advances.

The House adopted a favorable report on Delegate Edmunds' bill empowering the commissioners of Montgomery County to designate one of their members to supervise the county police force.

At the request of the American Automobile Association, Delegate Mullikin, who early in the session leveled an attack at the policies of the State motor vehicle department's police force, introduced in the House a bill that would render void testimony given by any police official in a motor violation, except in cases where arrests are made by officers while in uniform. In other words, motor car drivers would not be required to stop when hailed for alleged violation unless the party doing so is uniformed and displaying the proper badge.

Mullikin explained he had no definite personal knowledge of any activities that would warrant such legislation, but that he sponsored the measure merely by the request of the A. A. A.

Three Seriously Hurt As Auto Climbs Bank

Three Negroes were seriously hurt last night when a car they occupied owned by Mrs. W. W. Douglas of the Wardman Park Hotel, climbed a bank on the Rockville Pike and had its top torn off by a power line pole. Charles Angleson, address unknown, and Frances Loyola Thomas, 1825 Twelfth street northwest, were taken to the Emergency Hospital with fractured skulls. Arthur Lipscomb, 916 Westminster street northwest, was treated at Georgetown Hospital for less serious injuries. Police said all three had been drinking.

The injured trio was taken to the hospital by the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department Rescue Squad. Police last night were endeavoring to reach Mrs. Douglas, to determine whether the car was being used with her permission.

Ritchie Denies Heavy Withdrawal From Bank

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 16.—Asserting that, "as a public official, I deem it proper," Gov. Ritchie tonight addressed a letter to Speaker T. Burton Harrington of the House of Delegates stating that when the State banking commissioner files a list of corporations and individuals who withdrew $10,000 or more from any banks within ten days preceding the Maryland bank holiday, February 25, or others who made withdrawals since the holiday, "it will not contain my name."

No other reason was assigned by the executive for the communication, but it seemed to be generally accepted that it was intended to nail a rumor, persistently heard along with other reports, that the governor had made a substantial withdrawal from one of the banking institutions.

Wheaton Taxation Survey Is Assailed

Reassessment Is Protested in Petition Presented by Takoma League.

Resolutions protesting against general reassessment of property in the Wheaton District, now in progress, were presented to the Montgomery County Commissioners, yesterday by a committee from the Community League of Takoma Park, Md., headed by Herman C. Heffner. The petition declared the plan is unwise because of the economic situation, even though the proposed reduction in the county tax rate will mean a substantial saving to property owners.

Following presentation of the petition, a short talk on the methods of reassessment was given by Maj. Phil D. Poston, of the county board of assessors. Maj. Poston pointed out that the purpose of the reassessment is to equalize levies. He said property owners are consulted wherever possible, and changes must be published in county newspapers.

Maj. Poston said that of 1,245 homes reassessed in Takoma Park only 194 were raised.

7 'REDS' ARE JAILED IN ANNAPOLIS FIGHT

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 16.—Three white and four colored men, members of a party of Baltimore radicals who staged a demonstration in front of the State House and Executive Mansion, home of Gov. Ritchie, today, are lodged in Anne Arundel County Jail tonight following a battle with city police when their conduct became riotous. The officers used their clubs and blackjacks and fists were brought into play during the melee.

Those jailed, who are held on charges of inciting to riot, disorderly conduct and resisting officers, are Louis Berger, secretary of the International Defense League; Joseph McCauley and Peter Garnet, white; Eugene Solomon, Wilbur Davis, James Sales and John Hitchins, colored. Sales and Solomon were felled by blows from the officers, but no one was seriously hurt.

All seven waived a preliminary hearing when arraigned before Police Justice Louis M. Hopkins, and in default of bail were committed to jail. Bail for Berger, leader of the band, was placed at $1,000, and for the others, $200 each was required.

The band of reds, 36 in number, mobilized in Baltimore and came here unheralded, although it had been reported for several days that such a demonstration had been planned. Their primary object was to show their favor for the bill before the Legislature for repeal of the "Jim Crow" law, and freedom of Euel Lee, otherwise known as "Orphan Jones," condemned Negro slayer, whose third action for a new trial is now awaiting decision by the Court of Appeals. They carried banners and cards bearing slogans to that effect, as well as others.

Burglary Suspect Caught With Girl

Runaway Is Found in Auto of Man Accused of Montgomery Break.

William Frank O'Brien, 27 years old, was returned to Washington yesterday from Richmond, Va., to answer charges of housebreaking and larceny of an automobile. He also is wanted by Montgomery County, Md., police on charges of housebreaking and larceny.

O'Brien was arrested Wednesday in Richmond after the car he was driving was involved in an accident. At time of his arrest a 16-year-old runaway girl was with him in his car. No charges were placed against the girl and she was returned to her Virginia home.

O'Brien is alleged to have entered the house of Arthur P. Shanklin, on Conduit road in Montgomery County, and to have stripped the house of food, clothing and other articles. The loot was in the car at the time of his arrest, county police said. The county police filed a retainer with Washington police.

2 Highway Land Checks Received in Alexandria

Two checks, aggregating $28,400, were received in Alexandria yesterday in payment for parcels of land acquired in connection with construction of the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway. The checks are in favor of Hofmaier Guggenheim, for $18,400, for land north of what is known as Norton's Place, and $10,000 for the estate of Beverley D. Tucker, for land near Mount Vernon, and were sent to John P. Strauss, clerk of the United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia.

As soon as the awards are confirmed by Judge Luther B. Way, of that court, they will be mailed to the payees.

Club Votes Its Faith In Bank at Bethesda

Confidence in the stability and soundness of the Bethesda Bank was expressed in a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Business and Professional Luncheon Club of the Country Club District of Montgomery County, Md., at the Country Club Inn.

The vote of confidence followed a talk by S. Walter Bogley, former president of the club, who is cashier of the bank, in which he thanked the business men and citizens of the section for their support. Leslie B. Bell, president, presided.

NORTH BRIDGE ROUTE ADVOCATES TO MEET

Arlington Group Will Rally Support for Approach to Memorial Span.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Determined to carry out their plan to reach the Arlington Memorial Bridge by the extension of the Lee boulevard, advocates of the "northern route," headed by Joseph D. McDonnell, will hold a meeting next Wednesday night to map a definite plan of action.

This action comes as a result of the announcement by Chairman H. G. Shirley, of the State highway commission, that the proposed northern approach can not be abandoned in favor of the proposed southern approach without an act of the General Assembly. The State highway commission is committed to the northern approach.

Taking the view that Arlington County officials have failed in all efforts to have the Lee boulevard connected with the Arlington Memorial Bridge by either the northern or southern route, Mr. McDonnell says that all negotiations will be carried on with the State and military authorities, leaving the county out of the development entirely.

The advocates of the northern route, which failed sometime ago because of inability to get a right of way through the northern end of Fort Myer military reservation, claim that they have received the assurance of the military authorities that they will not oppose legislation giving the required right of way if they have definite assurance that the project will be carried on to the bridge.

Should the original route be followed only to the boundary of the military reservation, it was pointed out, all traffic from the boulevard would be thrown through Fort Myer and the roads are of such construction that they would care for the additional burden.

The plans now are, according to Mr. McDonnell, to hold a special meeting next Wednesday with property owners, officials of Mort Myer and interested property owners to formulate plans that can be presented to the State Highway Commission and then be carried out by the introduction of the necessary legislation in Congress to provide the needed rights of way through the military reservation.

Teacher Pay Slash Scored by Citizens

Group in Sligo Park Hills Urges Change in Paying Road Assessments.

Reduction in the pay of Montgomery County teachers was opposed in a resolution adopted by the Sligo Park Hills Citizens Association, in East Silver Spring School. The association voted to support a county school budget for 1933-34 adequate to provide for the maintenance of necessities in the school system. The organization also adopted a resolution, presented by Vernon Brewster, which supports the bill pending in the State Legislature to change time for paying road assessments from five years to ten years.

A. J. Driscoll, president of the Midcity Citizens Association of Washington for some 20 years, spoke and praised the association's conduct of business. Capt. Hugh H. Groves, of the Fifth Police Precinct, Washington, also spoke.

A gavel made from American walnut which dated back for more than 100 years in a Quaker family was presented to A. T. Coumbe, jr., the president, by David Harger and Tallman Peel, who made it. Mrs. Richard Barker was hostess, and was assisted by Mrs. Vernon Brewster, Mrs. A. T. Coumbe, jr., Mrs. Louis Dent, jr., and Mrs. E. W. Comstock. Dr. and Mrs. John Dudley were accepted as members.

Wage Row Closes Cleveland Movies

City's Theaters to Be Dark Today for First Time Since Old Days.

Cleveland, March 16 (A.P.).—For nearly 20 years, from pulpit and lecture platform, Cleveland's million has been hearing what the movies were doing to America—both good and bad—but a great many of them didn't find out until today what a pulsing part of their daily life the movie is.

For the first time since the days of the old nickelodeons, Cleveland bumped into the startling problem of what to do without the movies.

Tomorrow, all the motion picture theaters in the city will be dark—probably the first time in the history of the Hollywood industry that a major city of the country has been without the entertainment of the screen. A wage dispute between the theaters and their union employes brought on the closings.

Dr. Schacht Renamed Reichsbank President

Berlin, March 16 (A.P.).—Hjalmar Schacht was reappointed to his old post as president of the Reichsbank today, succeeding Hans Luther, who submitted his resignation to Chancellor Hitler. Dr. Schacht headed the bank from 1923 to 1930, resigning because of dissatisfaction with the final draft of the Young plan as it was agreed upon at The Hague. Dr. Luther succeeded him.

The regulations of the Reichsbank prevent removal of its president for political reasons, and Dr. Luther retired voluntarily, but he has been in conflict with the government recently over the program for financing work to relieve unemployment. Apparently this disagreement made it impossible for him to continue in office.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

BACK ON THE BEER STANDARD.

AMERICA has abandoned the gin standard. It is back on a beer basis.

• • • •

President Roosevelt and Congress are against weak banks and weak beer. After opening the banks they opened the breweries. And put no limit on the brewery "withdrawals."

• • • •

Fourteen years without beer and ten days without money did the trick.

• • • •

For fourteen years the country has been cutting beer instead of cutting expenses, and Congress finally acted when it saw that there was no percentage in either the beer or the economic experiment.

• • • •

The vote to restore real beer came when the President and the legislators became satisfied that 142 years of beer didn't give the Nation as big a headache as the fourteen years without it.

• • • •

Uncle Sam is permitting States to return to standards which permit him to buy a glass of genuine beer without sneaking up dark alleys and exchanging mysterious signals with racketeers and pussyfooters.

• • • •

A brewery will now be a brewery, and there will be no further pretenses that it is an ice cream plant, a garage or a place where children's toys are made.

• • • •

It begins to look as if the wet States were definitely emerging from the era of orgies, hip flasks, wood alcohol, hypocrisy, subterfuge, deception, pussyfooting, racketeering, dishonesty, false whiskers, mystic signals, bogus social clubs and imported ale at $2 a quart.

• • • •

The country will not only be given a chance to turn the corner, but it will turn it to the tune of "Sweet Adeline," "Old Heidelberg" and "Balm of Gilead."

PART OF THE NEW DEAL.

The Senate restaurant now has a "Roosevelt salad" for 30 cents. Probably a sort of Old Potato Salad.

Or perhaps it is a salad made up of kale, hops and cold cuts.

A QUESTION OF COLOR.

President Roosevelt is evidently determined to make certain that in the new deal nobody picks up the cards and says, "All red!"

Lou Stone, whose nature-faking dispatches from Winsted were featured in the New York papers for many years, is dead. The one we liked best was about the fellow who painted a spider on his bald head to keep the flies away.

T. K. B. thinks that the formal ceremonies marking the return of real beer should be held in Sudsbury, Mass.

THE EXCEPTION.

We lived without scrip—
But the waiter, I noticed,
Still looked for his tip.

Income Tax Filing Proceeding Slowly

Usual Last-Minute Rush Anticipated as People Defer Payments.

A sharp decline in the number of taxpayers at the office of the deputy collector of Internal Revenue here, which dropped off from 8,035 to 5,424 Wednesday and late yesterday diminished to only 650 people gives every indication that the recent income tax payment extension will be taken more as a moratorium than as a necessity and that the majority of the belated taxpayers will defer payment until the customary last minute.

According to extension terms income returns may be filed from now up to March 31 carrying a 6 per cent per annum interest charge against the first quarter. A free notary public service is offered at the Internal Revenue Bureau Building and an adequate number of revenue men will be on hand from 9 to 4:30 to accommodate the taxpayers.

D. A. V. Chapter Backs Jeffers' Veteran Bill

A resolution indorsing a bill introduced in the House of Representatives, giving war veterans preference in Civil Service positions, was passed at a special meeting last night of the National Capitol Chapter, No. 2, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, at the Soldiers and Sailors Home.

The bill was introduced recently by Representative Lamar Jeffers, of Alabama. At the close of the meeting by-laws were adopted, subject to the approval of the organization's national headquarters.

57 Oranges.

Make One Gallon of Juice, U. S. Finds, Aiding in Tax Convenience.

Probably you don't know how many oranges make a gallon of orange juice, but your thoughtful Uncle Sam does, after a survey conducted by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. In case you're interested, the answer is 57.

This latest step in the standardization of food products was really done for the convenience of orange juice dispensers. They pay a tax of 2 cents on every gallon you have for breakfast. Now, instead of measuring gallons, they can count oranges, the bureau points out. And generously making allowance for the juice that is spilled, the bureau will assume that it takes the juice of 60 oranges to get a gallon of juice in the glasses.

5-CENT STREET CAR FARE AGAIN BOBS UP WITH NEW DISGUISE

Eigen Suggests Use of Nickel Trolleys for Short Haul as Experiment.

The moot 5-cent fare for street railways bobbed up again yesterday unheralded, from an unexpected source and with a new name, but there was no indication that the street car companies are in any more receptive mood than they have been to previous schemes.

The Public Utilities Commission, which only a few months ago greeted People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech's plan for a 5-and-10-cent zone system laconically, issued a statement explaining that a plan to apply 5-cent fares to certain limited lines is being studied.

Carefully avoiding the term "zone fare," the commission explained that its idea was "to intersperse 5-cent cars among the regular fare cars, in such a way as not to interfere with the schedules now in force and to try this system out for an experimental period."

Suggested as Experiment.

These 5-cent cars would be placed only on short routes, where loops are made within a 2-mile radius of the downtown area, such as the line from Calvert street bridge to Peace Monument or to Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue or from Mount Pleasant to the Library of Congress.

"Short routes with a 5-cent fare, with the higher fare on the through cars, would allow these latter to be operated without picking up so many short-haul passengers; and while there might be a loss of revenue on the through lines, it is possible that it would be compensated for in part by reducing the through service and also by an increase in the number of riders on the short haul lower fare cars," the commission stated.

"If, after a trial of this system during the nonrush hours it proved to be remunerative, it might be extended temporarily and experimentally during the rush hours on similar short-routed services."

Schedules Changed.

The plan, according to the commission statement, was suggested by Vice Chairman Riley E. Elgen.

Several changes in schedules of the two street railways were ordered by the commission yesterday. Service on the Fourteenth street line of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. will be speeded up by reducing the headway between cars from 12 to 10 minutes.

Slower service was permitted on the Maryland line, the North Capitol-Wharves line, and the Eleventh street-Anacostia line. The headway was increased from 6 to 7½ minutes.

Buses will replace street cars on Water street southwest, east of Fourteenth street, under an order permitting the removal of car tracks.

Three Projects Urged By Dahlgren Terracers

Three projects to be incorporated in District legislation were suggested by the Dahlgren Terrace Citizens Association yesterday in a letter to James G Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

They are a bridge across the B. & O tracks at Franklin street northeast, a firehouse at Thirteenth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, and a bridge over the Pennsylvania and B. & O. railway tracks, connecting Twelfth street south with New York avenue.

Taxicab Flag Display Barred by Commission

Titles to taxicabs must be in the name of the operating company, the Public Utilities Commission ruled yesterday and ordered that cabs of the Major Taxi Service be so recorded, although the Major organization is a subsidiary of the Irving Cab Co.

Display of the American flag on taxicabs was forbidden in another commission order, based upon a recommendation by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride in the case of the American Cab Association.

Parents of 2 Children Forcibly Barred From School to Test Vaccination Law

Denied entrance to the Thomson School, Twelfth and L streets northwest, because of the charge of medical inspectors that they have not been properly vaccinated, Barbara Entz, 8, and her brother, David, 6, will make another effort to reach their classroom this morning, it was announced last night by H. H. Entz, of 1224 Thirteenth street northwest, washing machine salesman and father of the children.

The two children, accompanied by their parents, made a spectacular effort to enter the school yesterday afternoon after the pupils were prohibited from attending their classes that morning.

Four muscular District school employes were posted at each door of the school to block the invasion of parents and children. School officials stationed the guards at these points after ascertaining from the District corporation counsel that they would have a right to do so.

Egged on by the father, with an audience of cameramen and reporters summoned by the father, little Barbara and David tried to pass by the big men.

"Go on in there," the father shouted. "Walk in between their legs. Just let 'em try to put their hands on you. Go on, shove 'em—and let these gentlemen make your picture."

Regardless of these maneuvers, the children didn't get into the school.

In the more peaceful atmosphere of the office of Robert L. Haycock, assistant superintendent of schools, the facts in the case were presented by the school official as follows:

District public school authorities are bound by law not to admit children to schools who have not been duly vaccinated against smallpox or otherwise protected against the disease. The health department, in another statute, is held responsible for enforcement of this law.

Barbara and David were vaccinated last September, but, to use the vernacular, "it didn't take." Mr. Entz upon being notified of this, requested that another vaccination be postponed because the children had colds. The case then dragged along, involving correspondence between parents and school officials.

Mr. Entz contended that he had complied with the law in having his children vaccinated by a reputable physician and that the health certificates had been accepted at the Thomson School. Health officials declared that the children should be vaccinated a second time, as they were not immune to smallpox.

The case reached its climax yesterday. Mr. Entz, in announcing that he would make another effort today, said that he would make a test case of the District vaccination law.

DESTITUTE FAMILIES PASS 10,000 MARK

Director Reports 462 New Applications During Past Week.

The number of families on the rolls of the District unemployment relief headquarters last week passed the 10,000 mark, Leroy A. Halbert, director, yesterday reported to the special emergency committee of the board of public welfare.

There were 10,230 cases or families, with an average of four to a case, on the rolls at the end of last week, although only 8,797 were actually receiving aid. Rejections numbered 8,105 bringing all applications since August 1, 1932, to 18,335.

New applications for relief last week amounted to 462, and expenditures totalled $37,712.26. Total expenditures since August 1 are $718,992.80, leaving $481,007.40 for the sixteen weeks remaining before July 1. The committee had previously decided to expend about $35,000 a week until warm weather arrives and to then hold down the relief during the last few weeks.

The committee, which is headed by Sidney F. Taliaferro, discussed the proposal of the job assignment committee to provide made work on a weekly, rather than a daily stagger schedule, but no decision was reached.

Drama on April 3 and 4 Will Be Benefit Affair

The Lenten drama, "On the Third Day," to be given at Wardman Park Theater by the Drama Study League on April 3 and 4, will be a benefit performance on each of the two occasions. The first presentation will be a benefit for District Court 212, Catholic Daughters of America; and on Tuesday evening the performance will be for the benefit of the Church of Our Lady of Victory, of which the Rev. Mihm is pastor.

The drama is being directed by Arthur Bradley White and includes in its cast a number of notable Washington players, among them being Maurice Jarvis and Grace Sprucebank, who recently achieved success in the District one-act play tournament.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

Children still persist in courting death by using the busy streets as playgrounds. There is a definite regulation forbidding this, but many parents either are not vigilant enough to keep them out of the streets or are ignorant of the law.

Deaths	22	13
Injuries	741	729

Concert Is Planned By A Capella Choir

Famous Group to Appear at Mayflower Hotel Night of April 3.

Sixty Washington singers, comprising the A Capella Choir of First Congregational Church, will be heard in their third annual Lenten concert on Monday, April 3, at the Hotel Mayflower. This choir, organized several years ago by Mrs. Ruby Smith Stahl, has been heard frequently in the Capital City on many civic and national occasions and on the radio.

Well known among the pioneers here for "better church music" the members of this choir give their time unstintedly throughout the season. Outstanding musicians and music lovers in Washington are included in the list of sponsors for this year's Lenten concert and many prominent women in official circles have already taken boxes for the event, which is regarded as one of the important Lenten affairs in the city.

Their program will comprise choral numbers by Russian, English and American composers, of the present day, as well as compositions of an earlier period.

House to Delay Action On District Fund Bill

House consideration of the revamped District appropriations bill will be delayed at least two weeks, Representative James P. Buchanan (Democrat), Texas, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, indicated yesterday.

His announcement followed an earlier statement by Speaker Rainey that right of way might be made for the measure Monday. Representative Buchanan is considering having his deficiencies appropriations subcommittee, of which he is chairman, dispose of the measure, which ordinarily is handled by the House District appropriations subcommittee.

Handling of Marchers Attacked by Socialists

A resolution condemning the alleged brutality displayed by police against marchers who on March 9 attempted to present a petition to the city authorities was adopted yesterday by the Washington local of the Socialist Party.

The resolution also asked the dismissal of Inspector Albert Headley, who led the police, and urged that Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer not be reappointed at the District board.

WIFE SHOT BY MATE, SUICIDE, IMPROVING

Two Children Staying With Mrs. Edwards' Relatives; Act Laid to Worry.

Mrs. Amanda Edwards, 32-year-old mother of two small children, who was seriously wounded Wednesday when her husband, Sidney Edwards, 45, shot her in the head and then killed himself, was said to be slightly improved at Emergency Hospital last night.

Lack of work and financial worry was said to have been the cause of Edward's act.

TAFT BRIDGE LEAP ENDS IN DEATH FOR CHEVY CHASE MAN

Taft Bridge claimed another victim yesterday morning when Donald R. Cameron, 33, of 9311 Montgomery avenue, Chevy Chase, Md., jumped to his death landing on the paving near the center of Rock Creek drive, 100 feet below.

Cameron was still alive when the fire rescue squad arrived on the scene, even though he was said to have struck on his head. He was rushed to Emergency Hospital but died en route. After an investigation was completed by members of the homicide squad, Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, acting coroner, issued a certificate of suicide.

According to Detective Sergt. H. K. Wilson, chief of the homicide squad, Cameron's act was witnessed by an unidentified man, who ran to the Shoreham Hotel and told the clerk, who in turn notified police. The witness disappeared before giving his name.

Cameron's auto was found in front of 2101 Connecticut avenue, but no notes were found. The body was identified by his brother-in-law, Howard P. Poley, president of an electrical firm of the same name. Poley said that Cameron had worked for the firm for some time.

Mrs. Marina B. Cameron, the dead man's wife, from whom he had been separated for some time, could shed no light on the reason for her husband's act. She lives at 1026 Sixteenth street.

Prof. Potter Addresses Engineers on Problems

The mission of the engineering profession will be poorly fulfilled unless there is a much greater degree of well-being in the future than there is today, Prof. A. A. Potter, president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and dean of engineering at Purdue University, told the Washington section of the organization at its meeting yesterday. He spoke on the subject "The Relation of the Engineer to Present Day Problems."

President Potter presented a medal to H. B. Binnse, of Washington, in commemoration of his 50 years of membership in the society.

Northeast Boys Club To Compete for Trophy

Thomas J. Groom, new member of the board of directors of the Northeast Boys' Club, has presented a handsome silver trophy to the club for which the senior boys will compete in a basket ball tournament. The cup will be awarded each year in the intra-club tournament.

Work on the wall of the gymnasium, which had to be rebuilt because of sagging foundations which threatened the collapse of one end of the building, has been completed and the boys have resumed their full athletic program.

Honor Paid Winslow At Kiwanis Meeting

George H. Winslow, secretary emeritus, was presented with a hickory limb yesterday at a meeting of the Washington Kiwanis Club. It was explained that the limb was to hang his clothes on when he goes swimming. At a previous meeting, he was awarded as an attendance prize a season ticket to the Ambassador Hotel swimming pool.

Dr. Kramer Disapproves High School Marriages

Commenting on the recent revelation of two marriages by high school pupils, Dr. Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools, said yesterday that he does not believe matrimony is conducive to strict attention to scholastic pursuits.

Dr. Kramer pointed out that no attention is paid to the fact that pupils are married, so far as school officials are concerned. He agreed that it will be difficult to decide to whom report cards should be sent—to the married pupils or their parents.

Thanks to Robert Thompson and The Post, Patrolman C. C. Williams, of the Second Precinct, has his hunting hounds back home.

When the hounds wandered to the Thompson Brothers furniture store in Anacostia Wednesday, Mr. Thompson felt sure some huntsman would lose his hounds unless some one took them in tow forthwith. He penned them up and appealed to The Post to help him find the owner.

Patient Abuse Laid To Psychiatrists

Dr. Moore, of Catholic U., Lectures for Benefit of Arts School.

Psychoanalytic procedure is sometimes grossly abused, Dr. Thomas V. Moore, professor of psychology at Catholic University, said yesterday in a lecture at the Carlton Hotel for the benefit of St. Gertrude's School of Arts and Crafts.

In the first part of his address, Dr. Moore explained how a psychoanalysis is made and told of the theory of dreams and technique of dream analysis. The presentation of the Freudian theory of dream analysis was accompanied by actual examples.

There are some psychiatrists, he said, who, feeling that the patient's religious ideas are major symptoms, try to break down these ideas.

LINKING OF CAPITAL PARKS HIGHWAYS IS SPEEDED BY ACTION

Excavating Plans Are Given Approval and Bids to Be Asked.

Linking of Potomac and Rock Creek Parks—opening up a new vista of driving possibilities for local motorists—loomed much nearer yesterday with announcement that work connecting the north end of the former park with the south end of the latter would begin shortly.

Plans for excavating side walls of Rock Creek Valley in section 2—south of Q street to K street—were approved yesterday by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Parks, announced that he would call for bids at an early date.

Money is on hand for only the excavating work, but the commission indorsed the entire project of improved parkway and which will take a broad highway from Potomac Park at K street north under the M street and Pennsylvania avenue bridges to connect with the present Rock Creek terminus at Q street. Funds for completion of the work are expected to be appropriated later.
